Volunteers Spared
45-Day Rap

By BOB HARDESTY

WASHINGTON.—Prior service men who fail to show up for training under the new one-year Reserve program will no longer be subject to 45 days of active duty as punishment, the Army announced last week.

Instead, the delinquent Reservists will be dropped from the program, the Army said, and denied another chance to fulfill their Reserve obligation in this manner.

The one-year program was designed under the Reserve Forces Act of 1955 to encourage prior service men with no compulsory Reserve training time—those who entered the Army before August 9, 1955—to participate actively in a unit.

Under the law, prior service men with two years of active duty have an obligation of six years in the Ready Reserves if they do not participate actively. However, the law provides that they can participate with a unit for one year and are then eligible for transfer to the Standby Reserves where they are

WASHINGTON.—The services were slated this week to present their case for the relief of some 17,000 servicemen overpaid reenlistment bonuses under the new law.

As Army Times went to press, Pentagon officials were preparing to appear before the House Armed Services committee in an attempt to save enlisted men from repaying what Pentagon sources said probably amounts to more than $5.5 million in excess bonus money.

INVOLVED are enlisted men who (1) collected "allowances" for re-enlistments after Oct. 1, 1949; (2) reenlisted again after July 16, 1954, and (3) collected big "first reenlistment" bonuses for these new hitches.

More than a year ago, the Comptroller General outlawed the payments, saying the allowances

Top Enlisted Grades
In 2-Month Freeze

WASHINGTON.—A reduction of three months in length of service before promotion to PFC and a quota of 29,000 promotions to grade E-4 (corporal or SP3) make up this month's enlisted promotion allocations. Promotions to higher grades remain frozen for the second month in a row.

The Army said that any man who had completed 15 months' active federal service by April 1 could be promoted to grade E-3, regardless of vacancies existing, if he was recommended for such a promotion by his unit commander.

In addition, the Army reopened promotions to E-4, with most such promotions expected to be to specialist grade.

"No promotions to higher grades are authorized this month due to current overages in these grades," the Army said.

New Homes Started

WASHINGTON.—New family housing was announced this week for three more Army posts—Fort Huachuca, Ariz., and Forts Totten and Tilden, N. Y.

Huachuca will get 500 new Wherry units—the last Wherry project to be built in the country. A month ago, work started on an additional 200 MCA (Military Construction Army) family units at Huachuca.

At Totten and Tilden, new Capehart construction will consist of two-story three-bedroom duplexes.

Not a Miss in a Tankful

Tradition-Packed Regiments
To Get New Permanent Homes

WASHINGTON.—New homes have been found for four of the Army's older infantry regiments and a place for a fifth is under study.

When the divisions to which they are now assigned are put on the inactive list, the colors of the 1st, 4th, 5th, 20th and 29th Infantry Regiments will be transferred. Present members of those units will be reassigned at that time. No actual change in equipment or personnel is contemplated.

In all but one case, other regimental designations are being replaced by these historic ones. Where this is done, members of the units being replaced will change their units but not their duties or assignments.

The Army would not give exact dates on which the 6th, 23d or 71st Division would become inactive, other than to say it would be before June 1. The 6th Division goes on the inactive list when the 5th Division completes its Gyroscopic move from Europe in May. The 71st Division will Gyroscopic with the 2d, beginning in July, and will be replaced by the 4th at Fort Lewis, which is Gyroscopic with the 3d Armored Division, beginning in May. No date for the deactivation of the 23d is yet firm.

The colors of the 1st Infantry, now a unit of the 6th Infantry Division (Training), moves to the Army Warns

On Greens,
Eyes Beret

WASHINGTON.—The Army advised individuals this week not to buy Army green uniforms until the official specifications have been released.

Other word on uniforms put out by the Pentagon this week:

- The overseas cap will be worn only one way by everyone in the Army—tilted to the right. This applies specifically to Armor, which has worn this cap with a tilt to the left for years.

- Beginning July 1, the new summer uniform of shorts, shirt and knee-length socks is authorized for wear.

- Berets for special forces and airborne troops are out, but the question of putting the entire Army in berets as a substitute for the field cap is under serious study.

IN WARNING men away from contracting for the new green uniform, the Army said that regulations containing specifications for the new uniform have not yet been published. These are in the works.

Until they are published, there is no way to be sure that a uniform purchase is proper.

In its message to the field (DA 405078), the Army pointed out that there's no rush to get the new uniform. It is not authorized for duty wear until Oct. 1, 1957. It is authorized for off-duty wear in October, this year.

"The Army Regulation covering the Army green uniform will be published and the regulation un-

Plan Asks for Extra Isolated Duty Leave

WASHINGTON.—Servicemen stationed at isolated sites outside and ZI and Alaska would receive "compensatory" absence under a new Air Force recommendation. The extra time off would come after a person completed a tour at a far-away site and be in addition to the normal post-tour leave.

Thus a person who takes regular leave for 30 days might receive an additional two weeks or so, gratis, officials explained.

The plan, which has been accepted by the Defense Department as a Pentagon legislative item, is another move to improve service life.

Defense this week was awaiting Army and Navy comments on the compensatory absence plans. Regulations—if the measure eventually passes Congress—will spell out who gets compensatory leave and how much.

Navy is sponsoring another leave change, which would authorize up to 30 days re-enlistment leave for servicemen under certain conditions. This also is included in Defense's list of legislation it would like passed this year. Status early this week was "awaiting Army and AF comments."

Over 100 separate legislative proposals dealing with personnel and Reserve matters are on Defense's approved list. Included are the major career bills in various stages of progress through Congress.

Army Scientists May Speed Tornado Alerts

WASHINGTON—Weathermen may soon be able to tag an ordinary-looking thunderstorm as a potential death-dealing tornado by using facts recently uncovered by the Army Signal Corps, the Department of the Army announced last week.

Accurate and specific detection, impossible with today's forecasting techniques, would give families in a danger area more time to seek safety before a twister actually strikes. Present tornado warnings are more general, stating only that "tornado conditions" exist in a large area, sometimes stretching over two or more states.

All 48 states have reported tornadoes, nature's most violent storms. In the past 40 years twisters have killed more than 9000 persons and wrecked over a half billion dollars worth of property.

In their cloud physics research for weather facts vital to military operations, meteorologists at the Signal Corps Engineering Laboratories, Fort Monmouth, are pressing a three-pronged attack on the nation's twister problem.

ARMY RESEARCHERS have now broken a tornado down into its basic elements and have successfully spawned miniature twisters in a laboratory tank. In another phase of the same study, they are identifying tornadoes through lightning characteristics. Later this year the Army plans to map a storm's winds by using aluminum chaff and radar.

The "tornado tank" experiments verify an 1887 theory of William Ferrel, an early Signal Corps meteorologist, who believed that two separate winds—a persistent updraft and a slow circulating air current near the ground—must tangle to spawn a tornado. By themselves, these winds are relatively harmless. They must meet in the right place at the right time to form a tornado.

IN THE TORNADO TANK, water currents take the place of winds. Water, sucked from the top through a glass tube, creates the "updraft." At the same time a slow rotating current is started underneath. As soon as these "winds" get together the tornado forms.

The water duplicates what happens in the huge volume of air during a natural storm, according to Dr. H. K. Weickmann, Army Signal Corps employee who developed the tank. The major tank advantages are in being able to vary the winds and study the storm as a whole.

To double-check the Ferrel theory, Army scientists plan to cast a 30-mile line of chaff, or aluminum confetti, in the path of a storm from a research aircraft.

THIS CHAFF, used during War II to jam radars by causing confusing images on scopes, will be turned to advantage to trace the wind patterns in the storm. These chaff clouds will be tracked by ground and airborne radars. The drop is planned for the tornado season, this spring or summer, near Oklahoma City, Okla. It is believed to be the first time chaff-mapping has been attempted in tornado research.

In the third phase of the tornado research, scientists are studying the lightning from storms for characteristics that may identify them as potential twisters. Such a lightning "fingerprint" could give a twister away before it even forms. Dr. Weickmann stressed that the

NEW Commandant of Cadets at the U.S. Military Academy is Col. John L. Throckmorton, who had been chief of staff of the Academy since June 1955. He succeeds Brig. Gen. Edwin J. Messinger who has been assigned to Headquarters, U.S. Army Pacific.

Signal Corps research is not designed to break up or prevent twisters, but may provide the key to an early tornado alert.

QM School Shift

FORT LEE, Va.—Col. S. F. Silver, formerly commanding officer of the Fort Worth General Depot, is the new commandant of the Quartermaster School. He took command of the school from Col. C. B. Henderson, who left after close to three years here for a new assignment as commanding officer of the Schenectady (N.Y.) General Depot.

The change of command took place at a formal review of quartermaster School troops. Colonel Silver reviewed the troops with Maj. Gen. Ira Evans, commanding general of the Quartermaster Training Command here.

States Urged to Continue Tax Exemption on PX Beer

RENO, Nev.—The general counsel of PXs reminded state liquor administrators this week that uniform selling prices for beer sales in post exchanges would not be possible if state taxes were imposed.

Addressing the administrators from throughout the United States who assembled for their national convention here was Charles E. Hassett, general counsel of the Army and Air Force Exchange Service.

Prescribed prices are necessary for servicemen and women and their families because they are "captives" of the government, Hassett said. The existence of exchanges with uniform price policies offsets the instability of military life, he pointed out. "It is important to a serviceman, who may be transferred from one station to a less desirable one, to know he can obtain articles to satisfy his everyday needs at the PX at the same price it cost him at his previous station."

THE AAFES COUNSEL referred specifically in his talk to 32 percent beer which he noted the federal government and many states define as non-intoxicating.

"In exchanges in the United States the selling prices of 32 percent beer have been established at 20 cents per can or bottle for nationally advertised brands and 15 cents for local or regional brands," Hassett declared.

Hassett said this standard price is possible only through the recognition by state officials of uniform prices as the keystone of the exchange structure. He pointed out that the overwhelming majority of the states where exchanges are located have granted beer tax exemptions, 22 of them by legislative action and 24 by administrative action.

IN HIS SPEECH, Hassett defended the right of a serviceman customer to take a case of 32 beer to his quarters, which may be located away from his military installation. He noted that adequate quarters for all married personnel frequently are unavailable on a military reservation.

"It would seem discriminatory to prevent these servicemen from enjoying a privilege which others, perhaps of the same unit, could enjoy by reason of residence on the enclave," Hassett said.

Engineer Named

WASHINGTON.—Col. Edward A. Comm, deputy chief of staff for plans and logistics operations, U. S. Army, Europe, Communications Zone, will become District Engineer at Louisville, Ky. He will succeed Col. William D. Milne, the District Engineer since 1953. His new assignment will become effective at the end of July.

Helicopters 'Climb' Pikes Peak

MAJ. Walter S. Mukuch, commander of the 93d Trans. Helicopter Co., of Fort Riley, Kans., guides in the last of three Army H-21 'copters that landed on 14,110-foot Pikes Peak to set a new high altitude operation record. Maj. Mukuch landed the first, followed closely by Capt. Walter E. Spriggs, 93d operations officer, and 1st Lt. Milton Horwitz, CO of Riley's 80th Field Maintenance Detachment.

Army Helicopters Make Highest Test Landing

FORT CARSON, Colo. — Three Army H-21 helicopters from Fort Riley, Kans., landed successfully early April 4 on the top of towering Pikes Peak at an elevation of 14,110 feet. The first 'copter landed on the Peak at 6:50 a.m., the second at 6:53 a.m., and the third five minutes later.

It was the first time in history an Army helicopter had operated successfully at this altitude.

Previous high H-21 mark took place last month when two of the huge helicopters settled on 12,567-foot Sugarloaf Peak in Colorado.

The three choppers are among 12 from Fort Riley stationed temporarily at Fort Carson, Colo., for high altitude tests.

THE FLIGHT started at 6 o'clock at Carson's Mesa airstrip when the three choppers took off in the early morning light, looking like silent swan-like metal monsters silhouetted against the rising sun. The early departure time was aimed at avoiding high winds.

"Good visibility and not too much wind," was the comment of Maj. Walter S. Mukuch, commander of the 93d Trans. Helicopter Co. of Fort Riley, who was at the controls of the first 'copter to land on Pikes Peak.

Chemical Corps Moves Materiel Command HQ

ARMY CHEMICAL CENTER, Md. — Headquarters of the Chemical Corps Materiel Command completed its relocation to the Army Chemical Center, on March 30. Formerly situated in Baltimore, the move was part of a recommendation made by an ad hoc civilian committee reporting to the Chief Chemical Officer on the administration and operation of the Army Chemical Corps.

Materiel Command assumed command of Army Chemical Center on April 1. Brig. Gen. Marshall Stubbs is its commander.

In addition to its new functions of post command, Materiel Command headquarters is responsible for procuring, supplying, storing and issuing items of Chemical Corps equipment for the Army, Navy and Air Forces.

At the controls of the two other choppers were Capt. Walter E. Spriggs, operations officer of the company, and 1st Lt. Milton Horwitz, commander of Riley's 80th Field Maintenance Detachment.

WHEELING OVER Colorado Springs, the khaki-colored ships hovered along the ridges and valleys of the Rocky Mountains as they climbed higher and higher.

As they moved around the northern side of the Peak, it was necessary to communicate by hand signals because of the roar of the motors.

Shortly after 7 o'clock, all three aircraft had taken off from the Peak for their return trip to Carson.

Luis Diana (Mooney of Fort Bliss) Hopes to Make Good as a Torero

By PFC CARMEN VIGLUCCI
FORT BLISS, Tex. ... The Plaza de Toros in Juarez, Mexico, is an empty place during the week. The stands, which resound to thousands of stamping feet and thundering o-le's on Sunday, loom like a quiet sentinel over the still ring. Of late, the plaza's solitude has been disturbed. A slight, middle-aged Mexican and a sandy-haired American youth can be seen in the twilight, practicing the techniques of the art of tauromachy.

The Mexican is Felix Romero, a retired torero who has participated in 383 bullfights and who has worked banderilla with Manolete. He says little during the workouts. Now and then he adjusts the youth's grip on the muleta or motions for him to change the stance of his feet.

Martin Mooney, a Fort Bliss soldier, is the American. He is 22 years old, stocky, and has a fierce desire to be free from routine. He hopes to find this freedom in the great plazas de toros of the world.

"I sense complete freedom all alone with my feet in the sand facing death in the corrida," says Mooney.

The former torero seems confident that Mooney, who is known as Luis Diana in Juarez, will be able to make the jump from a sales manager's office in Kingston, Pa. to the colorful Plaza de Toros in Juarez. Romero dropped 40 paying students to take on Mooney as his private protege.

ALTHOUGH Mooney's prime ambition is to become a matador, he has a secondary aim to popularize bullfighting among Americans. He is annoyed by the "sophomore comments" of his countrymen at the fights.

"The main trouble," says Mooney, "is that Americans expect to see a sport, which is exactly what bullfighting is not. It combines the brutal ferocity of the prize-ring, the graceful beauty of the ballet, and the stirring pageantry of the corrida to form a dramatic tragedy in which the victor is always death. It is an art, not a sport."

Mooney first came into contact with the art when he was stationed at Fort Bliss in July, 1955.

He was reluctant even to attend a bullfight, but a friend persuaded him to the point of buying his ticket.

"My doubts about the art of the corrida were quickly absolved," says Mooney, who studied for a year in a Jesuit seminary. "I'd never seen anything to compare to the beauty of the fight."

WORKING ON the pose natural is Martin Mooney, a Fort Bliss, Tex., soldier who intends to make a career of bull fighting when he gets out of the Army. He hasn't yet fought a bull, but he's been offered contracts to appear in Mexican bull rings under the name of Luis Diana. He works out in the bull ring at Juarez, Mexico, whenever he has some free time.

Housekeeping Has Appeal For This Strapping 6-Footer

FORT RILEY, Kan.—Housekeeping seldom appeals to soldiers, but PFC William D. Hillmann Jr. of the 16th Inf. Regt.'s Hq. Co. is a strapping 6-foot, 3-inch, 190-pound exception to the rule.

Moreover, the Mahopac, N. Y., soldier's military duties fit nicely into his plans for a civilian occupation in the hotel business. He's the unit mail clerk and ought to be able to pinch hit for the hotel mail clerk when he returns to civilian life as an innkeeper.

Hillmann first became interested in the hotel profession through his parents, who operated a restaurant. He entered the School of Hotel Administration at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., and completed two years of the course before receiving his call to military service. He plans to return to Cornell when he complete his Army tour of duty.

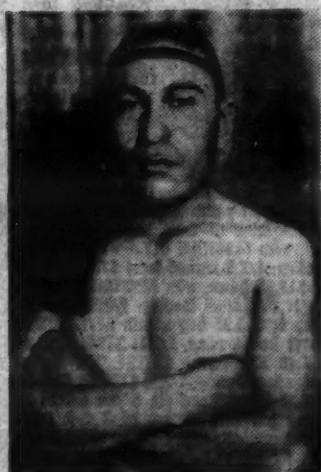

Hillmann's dedication to the hotel man's life is evident in the enthusiasm with which he discusses the traditions of innkeeping and the preparation necessary for such a life.

"The American pursuit of hotel work is vastly different from the European approach," he says, explaining that in Europe the training consists entirely of practical work. The Continental apprentice begins as a busboy or in a similar position and slowly works his way up.

The American aspirant to a hotel career may attend a school like Cornell, and after four years of intensive study, including much practical work, may step right into hotel administration as an assistant manager.

Hillmann said a highlight of the Cornell course is the week-end during which undergraduates take over the complete management of a hotel owned by a national chain.

Another high spot of the course is a tour of New York State's wineries.

GREAT grandson of famous Apache Indian chief, Cochise, Pvt. Silas Naiche, is learning to be a paratrooper at the 92d Abn. Div. Basic Airborne School. Naiche was born on the Apache Indian Reservation at Mescalero, N. M., and grew up with the sons and grandsons of other chiefs, including relatives of Geronimo. He's been a cowpuncher and rodeo rider but his big ambition now is "to be a good paratrooper."

FORT MONROE, Va.—Army personnel from privates to generals, who served here during the past 10 years, all speak fondly of "Mom at the Y."

Mom is a sweet-faced, white haired little lady behind the counter at the Fort Monroe YMCA who dishes out snacks and good old-fashioned advice to Army folk from two until ten o'clock every day except Thursdays.

She's laughed with them, advised and scolded them, rejoiced with them over their accomplishments, and wept over them when they left for other stations or gone back to civilian life.

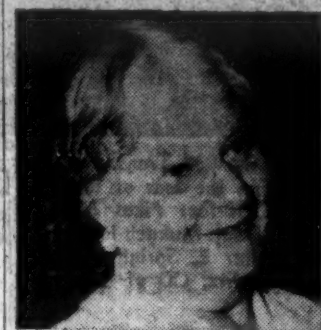

That's the picture service personnel, and families who have lived at Fort Monroe have of Mrs. Irene Holston who on March 24, celebrated the tenth anniversary of her arrival at the Fort Monroe YMCA for "duty." Altogether, she has served Armed Forces personnel for 13½ years, for before coming to Fort Monroe she worked at the Hampton USO once located on Academy Street and at Langley Air Force Base when it was called Langley Field.

"I got into USO work without asking for it," she said. "Three people whose names I still don't know recommended me, and when I was asked about taking the job I said 'All right, I guess I'll try it' and so I did."

With tears in her eyes, Mom recalls the day while she was serving in the USO at Langley Field when her first "batch" of boys "shipped" overseas.

"There were 150 of them in all," she said, "and I broke down and cried my eyes out when they left. I vowed then and there to quit USO work. I was very positive about it, too. Then the commanding general at Langley sent word to me that 1,500 new boys were coming in that day and he wanted me to be on hand to greet them and serve them doughnuts and coffee."

"From two o'clock in the afternoon until 11 o'clock that night the new boys poured into the air field. I got to talking to them, and they turned out to be so nice that I decided to stay."

4 McDormans In 82d Abn.

FORT BRAGG, N. C.—The McDorman family from Staunton, Virginia is well represented in the ranks of the 82d Abn. Div. Three brothers, George, Wilmer, James, and brother-in-law, Clarence Bodkin, are all qualified parachutists serving with the division.

The first, MSgt. George H. McDorman became airborne in 1942. His two younger brothers, Wilmer, then twelve, and James, then seven, told him, "We'll be troopers too when we grow up."

And grow up they did, big enough to fill a pair of jump boots and wear the "Silver Badge of Courage." But three troopers from one family wasn't enough, for when Wilmer got married, his wife's brother, Sgt. Clarence L. Bodkin, became part of this Airborne clan.

Mrs. Brazell is Happy Again

It Took Her 8 Years to Get Back in WAC

FORT McPHERSON, Ga. — A Third Army Hq. civilian employee who has, for eight years, wanted to return to military service in the WAC finally made it this week. Mrs. Lucille W. Brazell was sworn into the Women's Army Corps by Col. F. C. Castagneto, Third Army military personnel procurement officer, and she couldn't have smiled more broadly. Lucille served as a dental technician in the WAC in 1945-48, but had to leave the service due to Army regulations, because her daughter was under-age and depended upon her for support.

"They told me that I could return to the WAC as soon as my daughter became independent of my support," she relates, "but I surely have wanted to return to the service many times before now."

Mrs. Brazell's daughter got married recently, "and I filed my application for a WAC appointment the next day," Lucille said.

While waiting to become eligible to reapply for WAC service, Mrs. Brazell got as close to the Army as she could by working in the Third Army Military Personnel Procurement Division, Office of the WAC Procurement Officer, since 1951.

"The orderliness of the WAC is what I like," she said, by way of explaining her intense desire to reenlist. "The feeling of belonging to a large group, with a mission of service, where everyone is part of the big team, is something I haven't found anywhere else."

EIGHT YEAR AMBITION is realized for Mrs. Lucille Brazell as she's sworn into the WAC by Col. F. C. Castagneto, Third Army military procurement chief, at Fort McPherson, Ga.

Chemical Specialists Start Annual Scholarship Drive

ARMY CHEMICAL CENTER, Md.—Members of the Army Chemical Center Enlisted Specialists' Club are sponsoring a scholarship again this year, to be awarded to a June graduate of a Harford county high school.

The drive, which has the support of Brig. Gen. John R. Burns, post commander, began March 26, and will continue through April. The goal is set for $750. Contributions will be solicited only from the enlisted specialists, but donations from other military personnel and civilian groups will be accepted.

Candidates for the scholarship must show demonstrated ability, a desire to learn and a need for financial assistance. The award will be made without regard to religion, sex, or color.

The 1953 winner, Jack Jones of Whiteford, is attending State

Teachers College in Towson. He is president of the junior class and plans on teaching social studies and English when he graduates next year.

Louise Reed of Fallston, the 1954 recipient, is working for a bachelor of science degree in medical technology at Elizabethtown College in Pennsylvania.

Last year's winner, Richard Reitz of Bel Air, is a freshman at the University of Maryland.

Results of the scholarship drive and the name of the student to receive the scholarship will be announced late in May.

The enlisted specialists are college-trained men with technical education. Drafted under the Army's scientific and professional program, they continue their specialized careers in various laboratories at the Chemical Center and other Army installations.

Command & Staff College Marks 75th Anniversary Next Month

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kans.—One of the oldest federal institutions in Kansas, the Army's Command and General Staff College, will celebrate its 75th anniversary May 7.

Many midwestern Army veterans will have memories of the fort or the college—either as inductees going through the reception and separation center there, or as officers attending one of the many wartime courses of the college.

The Command and General Staff College, as we know it today, came into being in 1881 while William Tecumseh Sherman, a Leavenworth lawyer and erstwhile legal associate of Abraham Lincoln, was Army Chief of Staff.

It was known as the "School of Application for Infantry and Cavalry" with 42 senior lieutenants and captains enrolled for a two-year course in reading, writing, grammar and arithmetic, as well as advanced subjects in military science.

From this beginning and through many reorganizations of the physical facilities and curriculum, more than 5000 officers graduated from the school prior to the beginning of War II. It was known at various times also as the "School of the Line," "General Staff School," "Command and General Staff School" and finally "Command and General Staff College."

THE GREAT VALUE of continuous training and schooling for officers in the Army was first evidenced by the large number of Command and Staff School graduates who were on the staff and in important command positions of the American Expeditionary Forces in France in War I. On several occasions, Gen. Pershing himself highly commended the quality of the training these officers had received at Leavenworth.

During War II, 27 classes turned out more than 18,000 student officers. Subsequent to War II an accelerated program of training Allied countries' armies gradually increased the enrollment of representatives from these countries until this year more than 125 officers from 40 countries have attended courses at the college.

Present-day instruction is at the post-graduate level. Each year more than 2000 officers of our Army, together with a few of the Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force, and the armed forces of our Allies complete resident courses at the college. Another 11,500 students, most of whom are officers of the Army Reserve and National Guard, are enrolled in various phases of the non-resident program.

THE COLLEGE, now in its 75th year of existence, is the keystone of the Army educational system. It is the senior tactical school of the Army and it is the only school that teaches the tactics of all the combined arms and services in combat.

In harmony with modern developments and lessons learned in recent wars, the college prepares its officer students to become competent commanders and general staff officers in units of the field army and the communications zone. Emphasis in the college curriculum is given to education rather than training, to the end that its graduates will have a well-rounded background for the solution of the challenging tactical problems of modern warfare.

The college also plays an important part in the Army's overall program of doctrinal activities. One of its principal missions is concerned with the formulation and revision of doctrine, procedures, tactics and techniques relating to the employment of the combined arms, including joint operations, and the development of doctrine governing the tactical employment of atomic weapons.

The full-time service of an alert group of selected officers of the college staff and faculty are devoted to research and development in this highly important field of activity.

SPEAKING ON War II, Prime Minister Winston Churchill said, "One of the greatest miracles of this conflict was the staff work of the world-wide forces of the United States. That so vast an undertaking could have been successfully prosecuted by so small a body of trained men is resounding tribute to the training of the United States military schools."

Constantly aware of the ever-increasing requirement for a high state of preparedness in our present-day Army, the college meets the challenge of its current mission in the same high tradition which,

Old Acquaintances Meet

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, a patient last year at Fitzsimons Hospital, chats with an old acquaintance, Lt. Col. Edythe P. Turner, at the White House, where she was a visitor last week. Col. Turner is chief of nurses of the Denver, Colo., hospital where the President was confined following his heart attack.

in the past, has produced a long list of able and distinguished graduates. This list includes almost all of the general officers of the Army, and many of the Air Force who led our victorious forces in the greatest war in history.

OF THE ARMY Chiefs of Staff during and since War II, Gens. Marshall, Eisenhower, Bradley, Collins, Ridgway and Taylor all were graduates of the Command and General Staff College or its forerunner, the Army School of the Line.

Likewise, three Air Force Chiefs of Staff, Gens. Spatz, Vandenberg and Twining were graduates. It is of particular gratification for the College to be able to point out that the President of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is one of its alumni: graduated first in his class of 245 students in 1926.

On its 75th anniversary, the Command and General Staff College looks with pride on the records of distinguished service to the nation made by its graduates and on its own record of conspicuous contribution to our national defense.

Gen. Lionel McGarr Named Staff College Commandant

WASHINGTON.—New assignments for four Army general officers and the retirement of one other were announced today by Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker.

Maj. Gen. Lionel C. McGarr, commanding general, U. S. Army Caribbean, Fort Amador, Canal Zone, will return to the United States in July and has been named Commandant of the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

Maj. Gen. Claude H. Chorpene, Assistant Chief of Staff, (Logistics), U. S. Army Forces Far East/Eighth Army (Rear), will return to the United States later this month and has been assigned to the office of the Chief of Army Engineers, office of the Chief of Staff, Washington, D. C.

Brig. Gen. John A. Barclay, commanding general, Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, N. J., has been assigned to the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, Huntsville, Ala. He will report to his new post later this month.

Brig. Gen. James K. Wilson Jr., director, office of Military Assistance Programs, office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for International and Security Affairs, Washington, D. C., has been assigned to Headquarters, U. S. Army Europe. He will report to his new post in July.

Army Orders Six New Beechcraft Planes

WICHITA, Kans.—The Army has ordered six new Beechcraft Model D50 Twin-Bonanza executive-type aircraft for command use in the field. Mrs. O. A. Beech, president of Beech Aircraft Corporation, Wichita, Kans., announced this week.

The first two were delivered this week. Deliveries of the other four will be completed by June 30.

Brig. Gen. Joseph Horridge, commanding general of the Ordnance Training Command, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., will retire April 30 after more than 27 years of active Army service.

ELECTRONIC TECHNICIANS

Time to think of your after-service job?

Use your experience in military electronics at General Electric's Light Military Electronic Equipment Department in Utica, New York.

A fine job—and a fine place to live—are both waiting for you at this General Electric Dept.—if you have had military experience or a two-year technical school course in electronics.

Assignments are unusually interesting, involving complete aligning of testing and troubleshooting of ordinary electronic units, as well as substitution testing on complex electronic equipment.

Ability and initiative determine your responsibility and compensation—not a "set" scale. And there are ample opportunities open to you to advance and increase your technical skills.

And you'll like Utica—a progressive, friendly community with ample housing, room in schools, and year-round outdoor recreation. Ideally located close to the Adirondack Forest Preserve.

Awards to Spur ARAACOM Reups

ENT AFB, Colo.—Plans for a sweeping new system of reenlistment awards for the Army Antiaircraft Command were announced this week at the Colorado Springs headquarters of ARAACOM by Lt. Gen. Stanley R. Mickelsen, commander.

The program, one of the most ambitious re-enlistment awards systems in the Army, began April 1 and will provide plaques at all levels of command from battery to ARAACOM headquarters.

The new awards program will complement the recently initiated intra-ARAACOM re-enlistment program by providing a continuous incentive to improve the re-enlistment rate.

Gen. Mickelsen will present a plaque to the major field command which achieves the best enlistment and re-enlistment results during the second quarter of 1956, ending in June, and for each quarter of the year thereafter.

ARAACOM headquarters will also issue a plaque to the commander of each major field command, group, battalion and certain brigades. Plaques so issued will be awarded in the same manner and for the same period of time as the plaque awarded by ARAACOM headquarters.

INITIALLY, 111 plaques will be issued to the various levels of command. These awards will be rotated, but any unit which wins an award three times in any 12-month period will retain permanent possession of the plaque. A replacement plaque will be issued to continue the competition.

The winning unit at each echelon of command will be the one which has the highest percentage of personnel enlisted or re-enlisted during the quarter. Equal credit will be given for AUS personnel enlisted and for Regular Army personnel re-enlisted.

Gen. Mickelsen said he hopes that the incentive awards program will give impetus to the command's new re-enlistment program and thereby help to retain greater numbers of highly qualified men in the Army Antiaircraft Command.

Safety Winner

FORT EUSTIS, Va.—The 3d Student Enlisted Company has won both the quarterly and monthly Transportation School Safety Awards. Brig. Gen. F. T. Voorhees, school commandant, presented the safety plaque and banner to 1st Lt. Charles Powell, company commander, in a brief ceremony last week in the commandant's office.

Winning both awards is an accomplishment that has not been equaled by any T-School company for at least a year.

Ground Broken at Devens For 200 New Housing Units

FORT DEVENS, Mass.—The prospect of a total of 850 new housing units to be erected at Fort Devens within the foreseeable future lends a bright spring aspect to the housing situation at New England's largest Military installation.

Ground was broken last week for the first 200 of 400 quarters to be built under military construction authority issued last fall. These will be located near the junction of Cavite Street and MacArthur Avenue, occupying part of the former Fort Devens Golf course. The area for erection of the remaining 200 units under this allocation has not yet been made.

A total of 60 buildings will complete the first 200 units. They will be of both one story and two story construction and of brick or brick-and-wood.

There will be 10 single family brick houses, earmarked for senior officers; 45-story brick two-family (duplex type) buildings for company grade and warrant officers, and 14 two-story brick-and-wood buildings, some for four, some for six, and some for eight families, to be occupied only by enlisted married personnel. The number of bedrooms will vary from two to three.

AUTHORIZATION FOR erection of 450 more units was recently announced. The sites provisionally selected are: The area bounded roughly by Antietam and Cavite Streets for 200; and in the Hospital area, near the Shirley Industrial School boundary, for the remaining 250 units. The locations, however, are tentative.

Old Laws Should Fade Away

THE LAWS against dual compensation have always been unfair and every year get more so. They have eroded by decades of court decisions and abrasive legal interpretations until they are shot full of curious loopholes and exemptions.

One of the laws dates back to the last century. It forbids anyone holding an office in the government paying $2500 or more from getting pay for any other government job, unless specifically permitted by law. The permissions, specific and general, are many — but they don't include most retired Regular officers.

In addition, the 1932 economy act forbade anyone—again with exceptions—from drawing more than $3000 in combined retired and civilian pay. Congress last year increased the amount of total pay from $3000 to $10,000. But it forgot to do anything about the older law, so most retired Regular officers are still hamstrung by a salary limitation set when $2500 was a princely income.

A set of Court of Claims and Comptroller General rulings has introduced inequities between different classes of Reserve officers. Some are exempt and some are not, for reasons that are ingenious but bear no relation to fairness.

The same is true of the distinctions among officers retired for disability during wartime. Congress said those disabled by combat or by accidents involving "instrumentalities of war," in war-time, are exempt. This gave rise to endless discrimination.

The inequity between warrants and commissioned warrants is just as inexcusable. W-1s, not being commissioned, are exempt from the dual pay laws. So are chief warrant grades in the Army and Air Force. Why discriminate against CWOs of the sea services only?

Then there is a whole set of loopholes that allow consultants and part-time workers to add materially to their year's retired income.

When a law bears unequally upon different classes of men, and even upon different individuals in the same classes, it ought to be repealed.

House Records Contrast

MILITARY career legislation is getting commendably fast action at the hands of the House of Representatives. In March it passed and sent to the Senate the dependent medical care and physician-dentist incentive bills.

Before that could be done, of course, committees studying the measures had to report them out with no unnecessary delay. This was done by the House Armed Services committee, headed by Rep. Carl Vinson and including such hard-working lawmakers as Rep. Paul J. Kilday.

Vinson's group passed quickly on the military construction bill for fiscal year 1957, which affects family housing. It has also taken up such important matters as Reserve severance pay and the bill permitting retirement in highest grade held.

All of this adds up to action.

In recent years the trend has been for the House to act first on military career matters.

The Senate, we think, particularly should move soon on the survivor benefits bill. The House passed this important personnel measure last June. The Senate Finance committee has not yet taken it up.

Citizens Vote

MILITARY CITIZENS will have to keep ear plugs tightly in place this year if they are to avoid being reminded of their duty to vote. And that is precisely as it should be.

This month voting officers will be appointed in every post. We hope they will take their assignments seriously.

By August 15 in all posts overseas and by September 15 in all ZI posts, there will be post card applications for absentee ballots for everyone who is eligible and who wishes to vote, and whose state permits absentee voting.

It is important for every citizen to vote, we think. It is important to the services to have all their members exercise their right to vote. Whom he votes for is the individual's private business.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Paging Sgt. Lee

ELIZABETH, N. J.: Somewhere in the service of his country there is a Sgt. William Lee who performed a noble service for a gentleman in one of our Allied countries.

When Sgt. Lee was in Korea from March 1951 to March 1952 he came in contact with young Mr. Cho Won Young. Since then, Mr. Cho has learned the English language and would like to write to the sergeant, to thank him for saving his life.

If you could help me locate this sergeant I will put him in touch with Mr. Cho.

Credits for 86th

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.: The March 24 issue of Army Times, pertaining to the 10th Inf. Div. states: "the 86th Regt. saw action at Rome-Arno, North Apennines and the Po Valley" and "the Mountaineers trained at Camp Hale, Camp Swift and maneuvered in California until January 1945 when they sailed for the Italian campaign."

As a member of the 68th Regt., I only received two battle stars, one for North Apennines and one for the Po Valley. I do not recall "maneuvering" in California and I spent Christmas 1944 in Naples, Italy.

SFC THOMAS D. CONROY

(Editor's Note: The Army Lineage Book — Vol. 2 — credits the 86th for the Rome-Arno, North Apennines and Po Valley campaigns. The 10th first went into action on Jan. 8, 1945, near Cutigliano and Orsigna. However, elements of the division began arriving in Italy in late December 1944, so you may well have spent Christmas of that year in Naples).

'Additional Duties'

FORT BRAGG, N. C.: I refer to your March 24 story, "Army Seeks Helicopter Pilots." As far as I know, the Army has not presented the facts concerning the cargo helicopter pilots course to the extent I consider necessary. I am a pilot.

First, almost everyone believes that a warrant officer is a specialist and available for assignment only in his field, whether it be personnel, supply, or what have you. That does not hold true for a helicopter pilot (MOS 1066), who becomes a warrant officer when he graduates.

When he reports to his transportation cargo helicopter company, his unit commander will ask him: "What else can you do besides fly a helicopter?" If he has been a supply NCO, for instance, before attending the course that made him a pilot, he is given additional duty as unit supply officer. If he was a mess steward or NCO, or in communications, he is assigned those duties. Of course, if he has never been anything but a rifleman (meaning no offense, I was one myself), he is well off. He will probably be made assistant to one of the other warrant officers.

In addition, he will find as time goes by that the day he made his last flight in school he almost quit flying. He will be fortunate if he flies as much in a month as he did in two days at school. I can say truthfully that if you fly six hours in one month, it is an exceptionally good month for you.

At the rate of five to 10 hours a month, it is easy to see that an individual might — I say might — have enough time to be a first pilot on a helicopter carrying passengers by the time his three-year obligation is completed. He might also get checked out to fly solo in the unit's recon helicopter after two or three months, if he is lucky. To get a school check-out for the large cargo helicopter is presently taking one year and up after joining a unit. End result is that the incoming pilot's morale hits rock bottom. At that time he is right in the groove with the remainder of the warrant officers in the unit.

"The more it changes, the more it is the same thing." (The titles for two volumes of articles dealing with the events of 1871 and written by a Frenchman, Alphonse Karr.)

In short, the idea of a warrant officer specializing and a commissioned officer generalizing is not true in a helicopter company.

One recommendation I have to correct this condition is that the Transportation School include in its officers' associate or regular basic and advanced courses an outline as to along what lines a helicopter company should be run. This should take into consideration all phases regarding personnel, equipment, etc.

In addition to teaching these officers how to run a helicopter company, enough literature in the form of directives should be mailed to present helicopter company commanders. And to avoid any misinterpretation of the directives, inspections should be run to keep commanders on the ball.

Re-up Campaign

FORMOSA: I want to congratulate the person responsible for the new "re-up" advertising campaign (Army Times, March 21) which concerns the Combat Infantry Badge.

It is a bang-up job of speaking for ALL who wear that coveted badge. People who wear it are proud of the Badge and I'll venture that if they had tried to put into words what the Badge means to them they would have failed.

Whoever wrote this new publicity deserves a vote of thanks for saying what we all feel on this subject. It is high time some publicity was given to the CIB.

MONTREY, Calif.: As recently published in your LETTERS COLUMN, the Uniformed Service Contingency Option Act of 1953 placed much pressure upon all of us eligible during the latter part of 1953.

This, with the lack of adequate information as to the very high cost of the act, plus the fact that the five-year time limit was not

Policy-Makers Often Hamper Intelligence System

By GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

ACCURATE and timely intelligence has always been essential to the efficient conduct of the foreign and military policies of nations. The more competitive the climate of world affairs, the greater the need for a good intelligence system — if possible a better one than is possessed by any competing state.

Intelligence, in this sense, consists of the raw material of collected information, refined by evaluation and comparison and seasoned with sound interpretation. The processes of collection, transmission, evaluation and final compilation into usable form cannot be too protracted; only timely intelligence is of any real value, and in today's split-second world the time limits have become desperately foreshortened.

One means by which current intelligence can be rendered more timely is the wise use of foresight, of interpretation of early indications and trends, so that later information fits into an established pattern, or conversely, enables that pattern to be altered to fit new disclosures.

Rarely does anything show up that is completely new, without any relation to what has gone before. All that is needed is an open mind, ready to accept the unfamiliar instead of casting it aside on the silly ground that "this has never happened before."

ALSO, the raw material of modern intelligence is, of necessity, vastly more diversified than in former years. A tremendous number of factors — political, social, economic, financial and psychological — must be taken into account in forming any accurate estimate of what the future course of a given state's policy is likely to be.

For example, the whole external attitude of a state like Iraq may be favorably affected, in the direction of greater stability, by the increased internal stability resulting from the completion of the great dams which are to control the flood waters of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers, as well as increasing the irrigated area available for agriculture.

The contrast between Iraqi policy today and that of its neighbor, Jordan, is in large measure the contrast between growing economic confidence and no economic confidence at all. This divergence of policy, and the underlying reasons, could have been and were foreseen and interpreted with reasonable accuracy in this country.

Curiously enough, it was neither foreseen nor interpreted as accurately in Israel, where emotion and anxiety tend to becloud objective vision when the policies of Arab states are being examined.

This is probably not the fault of the excellent Israeli intelligence service, but rather of the use made by the policy-makers of the intelligence they were furnished. As a former director of our own Central Intelligence Agency once told a Senate Committee, it is not the function of an intelligence service to say what shall be done with the information it collects and evaluates.

That is in the hands of higher authority — the head of State and his immediate Cabinet advisers. They must consider not only the facts, but what it is possible as well as advisable to do about them.

RARELY is it possible to attain the maximum of desirability: domestic politics we have always with us, including a greater or lesser favor of prejudice, and the policies and politics of allied states must also be taken into account.

Consider the current labors, extensive and intensive, being put forth by western intelligence services to come up with an accurate interpretation of the debunking of the Stalin legend, now being so vigorously pressed in the Soviet Union.

Let us suppose one hundred percent success were to be attained in finding out the real motivations of the present Soviet leaders in this matter. Let us suppose this intelligence coup pointed unmistakably to a coming change in Soviet policy — perhaps to the need of the Kremlin for a long period of peace and quiet abroad in order to repair shortcomings and build up shortages at home.

Does anyone think the corresponding shifts in policy of this country, or any other free country, to derive maximum benefit from these Soviet changes could be carried through without being hampered by every kind of political maneuvering, wishful thinking, hard-shell refusal to face facts, and all the other attendant clamors of the western political scene?

INDEED one of the greatest difficulties in making use of so excellent an intelligence system as we have developed in the past ten years is the hardening of mental attitudes in the minds of public men so they do not readily accept anything new.

They are also unwilling to take responsibility before the bar of public opinion for facts which they think may be acceptable either to the public at large, or to that section of it which controls their own personal political fortunes.

The dilution of sound political (and politico-military) decision by factors of this type is one of the dangers which must be understood as implicit in the foreign policy procedures of free peoples.

Army-List Officers Dominate Promotions

WASHINGTON.—The freeze on temporary promotion to captain from the Army promotion list appeared to be over this week. At the same time, the recommended list for temporary promotion to lieutenant colonel, selected in the winter of 1954-55, was exhausted.

These were the highlights in the April officer temporary promotion orders published this week in DA Special Order 60. A total of 641 officers were given temporary promotions.

In grades above that of captain, promotions were split about evenly between the Medical and Dental Corps on the one hand and all other lists on the other.

Date of rank for all those promoted is April 6, 1956.

The Army announced 12 promotions to temporary colonel. Six of these were to Army list officers with a cut-off date of rank as lieutenant colonel given by TAG as April 23, 1945. Four physicians were promoted to colonel with a May 16, 1945 cut-off date and two dentists with a cut-off of April 21, 1945.

The finishing up of the recommended list for promotion to lieutenant colonel gave the higher grade to 29 officers from the Army promotion list. Cut-off date, the same as that for the zone of consideration, is Oct. 30, 1950. Physicians and dentists, 28 in all, were promoted through cut-off date of July 20, 1951.

Of 116 promoted to major, 59 are Army list officers. Cut-off for these was given as Sept. 27, 1950, with 129 months' service for promotion purposes. No cut-off date was given for the 59 doctors promoted.

A total of 454 officers were given the temporary grade of captain, three times last month's number, which was the first Army list promotion list to captain in several months. Cut-off for the list is May 1, 1952. All but 13 of these promoted are Army list officers.

even mentioned in connection with the right to cancel, has caused untold hardship to all already retired under the bill and great concern to those about to retire.

I believe it is unjust and wrong to continue this act as it now is and strongly urge the writers to amend it to permit cancellation up to and including retirement date, removing the five-year time limit. "Regular Army"

Re-inspection

TOUL, France: While looking through the March 27 edition of Army Times, we noticed several peculiar and unexplainable errors in your picture on page four, captioned "An Actor and His Critic." Taking but a quick glance, any person having been schooled through eight weeks of basic training would readily notice the ridiculous mistakes committed by Private Coster, SFC Vanduzee and the photographer, un-named. The following procedures of good military training are being flagrantly disregarded:

* In what Army are the troops inspected by a superior wearing an entirely different uniform?

* SFC Vanduzee should be a PFC with longevity, if he continues to grab weapons presented for inspection with his left hand, on the upper handguard no less!

* Do you think it is appropriate to have PFC Coster being inspected with an M1? Unless our eyes have grown overstrained from helping Uncle Sam with his Operation Paper Chase, it looks as though PFC Coster is wearing regulation military police leather with a cartridge case that is meant to contain .45 caliber ball ammunition.

Since Army Times is proposedly a publication for the people serving in the Army, it is felt that "phony" pictures such as "An Actor and His Critic" could be deleted from your paper without reducing its circulation or military appeal in the least.

We would like to wish you the best of success in the continuance and betterment of Army Times as the number one military publication for the armed forces, both at home and abroad.

"TWO RA's and a US"

Beret in Army Future? Here's the Picture

form will be available in Quarter-master clothing outlets prior to the date it is first authorized for wear," the message says.

IN A SECOND message (DA 404872) the Army prescribed the one and only proper way to wear the overseas cap.

"Proper wearing position is with the bottom of the front vertical crease of the cap at the center of the forehead in a straight line with the nose and at a point between 1 and 1½ inches above eyebrow level. Cap will then be tilted slightly to the right but in no case will the side of the cap rest on top of the ear. Cap will be placed on the head in such a manner that the front and rear vertical creases and top edge of the crown form unbroken lines in silhouette. Crown will not be crushed or shaped so as to form peaks at front and rear of cap," says the message.

A spokesman for the office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel said that the intent of this order was that every man in the Army, regardless of branch, wore the overseas cap in the same way.

He said that this applied to Armor, particularly.

THE SHORT-SLEEVE shirt, shorts and knee-length socks of the new summer garrison uniform, according to DA Circular 670-5, may be worn beginning July 1. Time and place of wear will be up to local commanders.

Beginning July 1, all new men, including RFA and National Guard six-month trainees, will be issued two sets of the new uniform instead of two of the older summer uniform, reducing the issue of the old uniform from five to three sets. The new uniform will be available for sale "on an optional basis" also on July 1. Two years from now, possession of the uniform of shorts, short-sleeve shirt and knee-length socks will be mandatory for all men in the Army.

The uniform may not actually be available in all stores on July 1. The Army has set the period of July 1 to August 15 during which a priority system will be in effect.

BERETS are giving the Army trouble. The headgear was requested, first by special forces, then by the Airborne Center for all paratroopers.

For special forces, the beret is green; for airborne it was to be maroon. Special Forces has been wearing the green beret for more than a year on a "test" basis.

CONARC disapproved the recommendations from Fort Bragg and has now been supported by the Army Department.

But the possibility that the beret would be adopted Army-wide as a field hat is being studied now with no decision yet reached. Some feel that the beret is an "un-American" headgear. But its usefulness, particularly in woods and brush, has been clearly demonstrated.

For the time being, therefore, it appears that special forces will have to take off their green berets. But a beret, perhaps not green, may be in the Army's future.

He Likes It at Polk

FORT POLK, La.—Capt Norman J. Stevens has returned to Fort Polk for his third tour of duty here. The new operations and training officer of the 702nd Armd. Inf. Bn. first came to Polk in 1946 as an infantry instructor.

How's Housing at Stateside Posts?

THE following information about housing conditions in and around Stateside posts comes from local billeting and public information officers.

In some cases, particularly in vacation and university areas, conditions may change rapidly. Most post billeting officers advise leaving the family behind until new quarters are rented or bought at the new post.

Army Chemical Center Change

Since the survey of housing conditions at the Army Chemical Center, Md., appeared in Army Times, we have received the following letter from the post housing officer:

"At this time the housing situation is not critical as far as Wherry housing is concerned. There is a total of 550 Wherry units. Fifty-six of these units are located on the post and are for officers. The waiting list for Wherry is small and one shouldn't have to wait over 10 days.

"The Wherrys off post are rented to both officers and enlisted men and are assigned according to date of application.

"There are 101 sets of government quarters for officers which are assigned according to rank and date of rank.

"There are 244 sets of government quarters for enlisted personnel. Forty-four of these are set aside for the top three grades and assigned to the highest ranking NCOs. The remaining 200 are assigned to all enlisted personnel according to date of rank.

"For government quarters there is a long waiting list (71 officers and 160 EM).

"It is suggested that if personnel desire government quarters they should not bring their families with them when they arrive."

Fort Jackson, S.C.

The PIO at Jackson has sent in some changes to the report on housing received by Army Times. His letter reads:

"...There are three guest houses on post but only one is being operated by the Post Exchange at this time.

"There are 176 sets of quarters available for officer personnel. These are of the non-permanent type and have been declared substandard. Officers quarters are War II mobilization-type hospital wards converted into apartments. Vacancies do exist and the billeting officer should be contacted concerning availability and assignment.

"There are 344 sets of quarters of two and three bedroom capacity available to enlisted personnel. These are also of the non-permanent type and have been declared substandard. Vacancies do exist and the billeting officer should be contacted concerning availability and assignment.

"Civilian housing in the Columbia area is excellent and reasonably available."

Fort Miles, Del.

Lewes, Del., is a summer resort and housing is scarce during June, July and August. In July and August, the housing problem becomes even more complicated because of the arrival of troops for annual unit training.

While housing is extremely scarce in summer, it usually is available immediately in the winter. Almost all housing here is of the one and two bedroom variety.

The cost of one bedroom units is around $50, two bedroom apartments are around $75 and three bedroom apartments, when available, cost about $90.

Fort Miles has five trailer spaces. Three of these were vacant when Army Times compiled this housing report toward the end of February.

The post has 13 sets of government quarters for officers, and assignment to these is made immediately. The 15 sets of EM quarters on post are occupied—the waiting period varies. All post quarters are partially furnished.

The Fort Miles adjutant recommends that you write to him well in advance of arrival, giving complete details on grade, number and sex of children, etc.

Fort Monmouth, N.J.

There are hopes that 120 units of Capehart housing will be built here during the next year, although 240 units have been requested. These would be added to the following housing units now available at Monmouth:

There are 167 sets of government quarters for officers, for which there is a waiting period. An additional 264 sets of Wherry quarters are available to officers, after a wait of from three to six weeks.

Enlisted men have 111 sets of government quarters and 336 Wherry apartments. EM can get one of these units in from four to seven weeks; the furnished units take a bit longer.

Housing in the Monmouth area is tighter in the summer than during the rest of the year, because this is a resort area. Furnished one and two bedroom apartments are plentiful. One bedroom civilian-owned housing costs between $65 and $75 a month, furnished, and from $40 to $50 a month, unfurnished.

Two bedroom units cost up to $85 a month, with furnishings, and only $40 to $60 a month, unfurnished.

Three bedroom units can be found in from two to three weeks, and range between $75 and $125 a month.

Before signing a lease with a civilian landlord, post officials recommend that the lease be checked by the housing consultant in Bldg. 576. Housing information is available from the Family Housing Section, Hqs. Commandant.

Forty rooms are available to officers on a temporary basis at Monmouth. In the guest house, there are 20 quarters available to enlisted men and their families and guests.

The Wherry project, on a first come, first served basis, charges $66 for a small one bedroom apartment, $75 for a larger one bedroom unit. Two bedroom apartments cost $91 and three bedroom units cost $109.

Fort Myer Va.

Fort Myer is in the metropolitan area of Washington, D. C., and there are plenty of apartments and homes available in the Virginia suburbs.

Qualified officers can expect to wait 30 to 60 days for a three bedroom apartment at Myer, EM can anticipate a wait of about 30 days. Two bedroom units are available to officers on a few days' notice.

Myer has no guest houses for temporary visits. Rentals on private housing in the Washington area looks like this:

One bedroom—$85 to $110, furnished; $66 to $90, unfurnished. Two bedroom—$110 to $150, furnished; $85 to $120, unfurnished.

Three bedroom—$175 to $250, furnished; $110 to $150, unfurnished.

New greaseless way to keep your hair neat all day

No G.I. ever got chewed out for telling his First Sergeant the word about new Vitalis Hair Tonic.

You see, new Vitalis contains no grease—no animal, mineral or vegetable oil. Instead, it keeps your hair neat with V-7, the greaseless grooming discovery.

Greaseless Vitalis doesn't "pile up" on hair. You never have an over-slick, plastered-down look.

What's more, Vitalis protects you from dry, brittle hair and parched scalp—whether they're caused by field maneuvers or morning showers.

So try new Vitalis Hair Tonic with V-7. You'll like it. (And your lady will lionize you.)

OFFICERS:

How's your career going?

Take this quiz and see

SCORE 1 FOR EACH YES ANSWER

1. In your basic branch, are you included in the elite group of officers specializing in one of the most rapidly expanding fields in the Army today?
2. Do you have a job which means you earn well over $100 a month in extra pay—pay you will keep on collecting during any advanced branch schooling?
3. Have you taken on new assignments which greatly broaden your military horizons, put you in a position of vital responsibility and make you a highly respected member of any combat force?
4. Have you received aeronautical training that's equal to many thousands of dollars by civilian standards—training which enables you to procure and maintain civil pilot ratings while on active duty?
5. Have you gained all these benefits at absolutely no risk to your regular service career?

If you scored five on this quiz, you're already an Army Aviator—enjoying the great career advantages that go with Army Wings.

If you wish you'd scored five, then look into Army Aviation. It offers you real career insurance in today's increasingly mobile Army. Extra flight pay, new skills, greater military experience—they're all yours when you become an aviation officer in your basic branch. And when you enter this field, you're guaranteed that if it doesn't work out for you, your military career in your basic branch is in no way hindered. What more could you want?

Look up your nearest Army Aviation officer and ask him about the many advantages you'll enjoy when you wear Army Wings. He'll give you all the facts on how to apply for this sky high career.

MAKE ARMY WINGS YOUR CAREER "PLUS"

"No, dear, it doesn't surprise me in the least."

Story NCOs Remodel Mess, Save $7000 Decorator Fee

FORT STORY, Va. — Employees at the Fort Story Noncommissioned Officers' Mess decided they wanted their club to look like new. They didn't have the $8000 a civilian firm wanted to do the extensive remodeling, so they did the work themselves and saved $7000.

Seven men began working on the project last Feb. 1. By the end of the month, they had:

Installed a new glass brick entrance, carpeted the lobby, redecorated the stage and installed a new curtain, built a game room, refinished every piece of wood in the ballroom, including the floor, wallpapered the beaverboard and plywood walls of the ballroom, built and installed new chandeliers in the ballroom, built a salad bar in the dining room, redecorated the lounges and installed new draperies and venetian blinds throughout the mess.

wood walls of the ballroom, built and installed new chandeliers in the ballroom, built a salad bar in the dining room, redecorated the lounges and installed new draperies and venetian blinds throughout the mess.

ALL THIS took 29 days and cost about $1000. The mess was closed only two days while all the work was going on. Normally, the men worked eight hours each day renovating the club and stayed on duty to run the club when it opened each night. On the two days the club closed, those doing the redecorating worked 18 hours.

AT YOUR SERVICE

Q. What kind of discharge is given under AR 615-369, and is the regulation still "on the books"?

A. The old regulation, which has been superseded by AR 635-200, gave commanding officers the authority to release enlisted men for inaptitude, unsuitability for military service, failure to progress, etc.

OVERSEA RETIREMENT

Q. May a soldier with 20 years' active duty retire overseas, if he wants to reside overseas for a time?

A. Yes, he need not return to the Zone of Interior for retirement. He should, however, make arrangements with the military and with the State Department for residence overseas. (AR 635-230, par. 22.)

MUSTER PAY RULE

Q. I have requested a three-month early release from the Army under the provisions of Section IV, SR 615-360-5, and would like to know if I am eligible for mustering-out pay?

A. Such early release will not bar MOP, if otherwise eligible. MOP is not payable, however, to those who are released early to accept seasonal employment unless they served outside the continental United States or in Alaska.

WEARING ROK BADGE

Q. In what position is the Republic of Korea Presidential Unit Citation worn on the uniform?

uppermost." (See AR 220-315, par. 18f (4), and figures 17 and 27).

TAKING AUTO OVERSEAS

Q. I recently bought a new car through a finance company. Now I have orders to go overseas. Will it be okay to take the car with me?

A. In general automobile financing companies prohibit moving an automobile outside the United States when there is an unpaid balance. Certain state laws impose criminal and civil penalties for removing motor vehicles on which a lien is existing from such state without the consent of the lienor. Some companies which do allow movement of the vehicle outside the United States require a substantial cash payment for insurance. We suggest that you discuss the matter with the finance company or your legal assistance officer.

COMBAT RECORD

Q. During what period of combat time did the 52d Medical Battalion serve in Korea?

A. From Sept. 24, 1950 to July 27, 1953. The battalion is credited with nine of the 10 combat periods, beginning with the UN offensive.

NSLI PAYMENTS

Q. May retired Army personnel make an allotment of retirement pay to cover NSLI premium payments? If so, what regulation covers this policy?

A. AR 35-1921 spells out the policy which allows such allotments.

Eyes front!

Men who hope to make points with eye-filling lassies like model Linda Lombard have to keep a sharp eye out for their own personal appearance. "And in my book, that means well-groomed and cared-for hair" —confesses Linda. And that means one thing—Mennen Shampoo for Men. It's the only shampoo specially formulated for a man's hair and scalp problems. It's soapless and non-alkaline... contains hexachlorophene (to kill germs many authorities associate with dandruff). This combination helps avoid a scalp condition many dermatologists believe may contribute to loss of hair! Get Mennen Shampoo for Men today!

IBM WILL TRAIN YOU

IBM ENGINEER

If you have an M.E., E.E., or Physics degree, and you can meet our requirements, IBM will provide refresher training—full time at full salary—for a position in IBM research, product design, or product development—where engineering abilities and ideas are given their greatest scope. For information about training programs at IBM's Endicott and Poughkeepsie, N. Y. laboratories, write today for a copy of the IBM brochure, "Opportunities Unlimited." In writing, please give complete details of education and experience to:

William M. Hoyt, Dept. 1814
INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS MACHINES CORP.
590 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

IBM SALES REPRESENTATIVE

As an IBM Sales Representative, your future is what you make it. You work with business executives, you get outstanding sales and product training, excellent earnings. Most territories involve no overnight travel. And since IBM has 190 branch offices across the country, your starting location, if you wish, can probably be right where you lived before joining the Service. For full information, write, giving complete details of education and experience to:

B. N. Luther, Dept. 718
INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS MACHINES CORP.
590 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

IBM also has job opportunities available for men with technical training interested in maintenance of IBM machines. Address B. N. Luther.

Camera Clues

By GEORGE STILLMAN

A veteran photographer who has worked many years in Europe and who last year led a group of American amateurs on a camera tour of eight countries in Europe has come up with some handy hints for us.

Josef Muench, who writes for the N. Y. Times on photo subjects led a "Through The Lens Tour" that traveled for two months in a chartered bus, and made stops at all the photogenic spots like the tower of Pisa, Rome, Capri, but in addition went off on the side roads and took pictures of natives in their costumes and also of some of their daily life which is much different from that usually found in the big tourist centers.

SOME of Mr. Muench's experiences with this group of enthusiastic but amateur shutterbugs can provide us with knowledge for our own picture-taking in Europe.

On the matter of equipment while traveling, Muench had this to say, "I believe people should take with them as little equipment as possible. A 35mm camera is about the most convenient equipment for color, with a second for black and white. Whatever the camera, the traveler should be sure he can operate it with assurance and can reload it almost automatically. On running out of film in a gondola in Venice or halfway up a mountainside in an aerial tramway, one wants to be able to reload fast. I am convinced that no one should take a brand new camera on such a trip without first studying its mechanism and practicing with at least one roll."

Mr. Muench also stressed the necessity of carrying a lightweight folding tripod if you intend shooting at night or in museums and churches. He said that people who did not bring them had to find a sidewalk table or brace themselves against a wall with back and elbows firm. He did say that a tripod was an absolute necessity in photographing stained glass windows in churches.

Also very helpful in interior and color work is a good exposure meter. Muench stressed that the "wide variations" in exposure demand that you take a meter along on your camera travels.

Since the bulk of the shooting on this trip was in color, some of the suggestions that Muench makes on special filters and exposure habits are very timely and helpful. He said, "For color photography, one should keep a skylight filter on the standard lens, with a warm series one in reverse for cloudy days, or to take excessive blue out of mountain scenery."

"A WIDE ANGLE and a semi-telephoto (90mm) lens are very useful. One should estimate the quantity of film needed on an ordinary trip, then double it. Color film is not obtainable everywhere. You should plan to send at least your first color rolls for processing, either to a friend or to someone who will report promptly on how one is doing. Exposed rolls should be numbered and records kept of where each picture was taken."

On sunny days the average color exposure was 1/50 at f5.6 to f8, however there were situations in which a little experimenting was necessary, and for these Muench suggested "one exposure at normal reading, the second at half that and the third at twice." He reports that with this trio of exposures, you were sure of "hitting it right."

Mr. Muench also had a few other tips that he picked up on last year's tour. He thinks that traveling photographers must be able to anticipate pictures since many good scenes just won't wait for a hesitant or unready photographer.

"Must be an Army Mule - I see he has won his stripes."

Units Return to Bragg

CAMP STEWART, Ga. — The 3d Bn of the 82d Airborne Div.'s 325th Inf. Regt. and four regimental tank companies of the 82d Division have returned to their home station, Fort Bragg, North Carolina, after completing several weeks of training on the tank ranges of this antiaircraft artillery and tank training center.

Army Testing 'Deluge Gun' To Fight Fires in Arctic

FORT CHURCHILL, Canada. — Army engineers report successful tests of a gadget which will solve a hot problem in the Arctic: how to fight a fuel fire at 40 degrees below zero.

The device is a small tripod-mounted fire extinguisher which somewhat resembles a machine gun. It sprays a high-pressure stream of white foam which smothers a roaring blaze in a few minutes.

Members of the Corps of Engineers' Arctic Field Team commanded by Maj. George C. Ray Jr., call it a deluge gun. Officially, the commercially manufactured portable extinguisher is designated Fuel Storage Fire Protection Set number one.

Fuel in the far north means survival. Northern military installations like Fort Churchill—and especially radar stations farther north along the DEW-line—depend on fuel oil for heat, light, and power. Loss of the fuel supply by fire would result in more than inconvenience.

Standard Army fire-protection equipment will not function in the extreme Arctic temperatures. Hoses crack, liquid foam freezes, and controls often cannot be operated by men wearing heavy gloves.

The deluge gun provides a fire-fighting tool which will help insure continued successful operation of vital Arctic installations.

SERVING OFFICERS

with BIG dividends

Liberal dividends are served each year to United Services Automobile Association policyholders.

Last year over seven million dollars in dividends were paid to 262,161 policyholders. Stateside officers saved 44% on the usual standard annual automobile insurance rates.

USAA was organized in 1922 to provide automobile insurance at cost to the armed forces officer—a preferred risk group. During these 34 years USAA has grown to become the largest and strongest non-profit automobile insurance company serving active and retired officers, cadets and warrant officers of the U. S. Armed Forces.

USAA is under the direction and management of active and retired officers so the needs of the officer are understood wherever he may serve—in the United States, its possessions and territories; Canada, Cuba, Canal Zone, Japan, certain Pacific bases, the Philippines or Western Continental Europe.

USAA has neither agents nor branch offices for the solicitation of business. To save costs, all selling is by mail. We have claims attorneys and adjusters in all areas of coverage, and claims are promptly settled.

You're safe...you're saving...you're sure...when you insure with USAA. Just fill in coupon for more information. If you wish immediate coverage, so state.

Thomas, left, holds a platter of fried chicken, while Cpl. Edmond Crabtree has a platter of steaks at right.

Knife Wielder Fails to Win Reversal of Death Penalty

WASHINGTON—The Court of Military Appeals this week refused to reverse the conviction of an Army private who was found guilty of stabbing his friend 28 times with a six-inch knife.

Sentenced to death for the murder is Pvt. Frank Harris, an 18-year old soldier. The victim was a Cpl. Vaughan, whose mutilated body was found in the enlisted men's mess hall at the Ikego Ammunition Depot in Japan.

Harris' conviction and death sentence went to the appeals court automatically. His lawyer asked for a reversal of the lower court convictions, on grounds that:

- The evidence was insufficient to support a finding of premeditation, on the basis of self defense. The appeals court held that "the circumstances surrounding the discovery of the body, and its horribly mutilated condition, are quite clearly inconsistent with that theory."

- Some illegal evidence was admitted at the court martial. This included a morning report which showed that Harris was AWOL, and Harris' attorney argued that the Army couldn't give evidence of a crime for which the defendant is not being charged or tried. But the appeals court held that the morning report indicated "the accused's consciousness of guilt."

- Photographs of the victim, shown at the trial, were "of an inflammatory nature." The high military court ruled that the pictures were used by the local medical officer, and they supported the Army contention that Harris "used more force than was necessary" to defend himself.

Maj. Gen. Seitz Named As Iron MAAG Chief

WASHINGTON.—Maj. Gen. John F. R. Seitz has been named chief of the Military Assistance Advisory Group, Iran.

Gen. Seitz, who has been chief of the New Jersey Military District, Kearney, N. J., since August of last year, succeeds Maj. Gen. Robert A. McClure, who will retire May 31.

AIR FORCE

REGULAR officers must expect to retire after 28 years' service without making permanent colonel, they were told last week by AF headquarters. Results of this year's selections were that 150 out of 1700 were picked to fill vacancies, 600 or more will be added to the zone for next year and the selections will be no greater.

Air Force is so concerned about this that personnel chief Lt. Gen. Emmett (Rosy) O'Donnell issued a statement to reassure Regular officers that they could retire in highest grade held or grade in which serving (he cited the present bill before Congress). He told them that failure of selection would not be a black mark on their records.

Also announced were promotion plans for other grades where the War II hump, far worse for the Air Force than for the Army, will not prevent promotions through lieutenant colonel.

The ceiling of $90 a month that airmen can earn in off-duty jobs has been lifted. Now the amount is unlimited, so long as the job doesn't interfere with regular duties. Principally affected will be those who work in open messes, in theaters, and perhaps those working as sports officials, in base exchanges or as instructors in hobby shops.

SEA SERVICES

THE Navy is hurting for chief petty officers to train and lead other enlisted men. Result is that ships are now only about 80 percent manned, their combat effectiveness is "dangerously low".

'Old Salts' Hold Helm Of Fort Lewis Company

FORT LEWIS, Wash. — Now hear this: there should be smooth sailing ahead for Co. B of the 2d Div.'s 23d Inf. Regt., with all those fine nautical hands at the helm.

Unless, of course, the company commander, exec officer and mortar section chief all revert to Navy form and start passing the word to "up periscope," "look alive, sailor" and "give me another five pounds of air in the diving bell."

That's a possibility when you see who's on the company "bridge"—1st Lt. Fred J. Davis, commanding officer and veteran of War II submarine duty; 2d Lt. Julian B. Edwards executive officer, a West Point grad who attended the Naval Academy at Annapolis for two years, and Sgt. Earl Warner, mortar chief who was both a Navy diver and "frogman."

Salt-water lingo seldom heard toward them. Needless to say, we managed to dodge successfully."

Why are volunteers so eager to go down in the sea trip after trip?

Well, says the sailor turned infantryman, "we had a lot of pride in the Submarine Service. We called the rest of the Navy 'skimmers.'"

Lt. Edwards has no sea thrillers to relate from his two years at Annapolis, but does say that the curriculum waters are rougher along the Hudson.

SGT. WARNER switched from sailor's blue to olive drab after an explosion ended his diving career.

A gunner's mate third class, he was part of an underwater demolition team assigned to blast out coral formations at Bikini Atoll. Scientists based on the USS McKinley and Warner's ship, the USS Summer, wanted to learn the effect among the land-lubbing forces filled the Co. B orderly room the other day as a reporter got the three ex-sailors together.

USING A GLOBE, the "crew" of Co. B, 23d Inf. Regt., discuss their travels and experiences as former Navy men. Lt. Julian B. Edwards, right, a West Pointer who cut short his seafaring career after two years at Annapolis, "gets the word" from a couple of real old salts, Lt. Fred J. Davis, left, a former submariner, and Sgt. Earl Warner, who used to be a frogman.

LT. DAVIS, a slim, dark-haired Californian who navigated to an Army commission through ROTC at San Jose State College, served three years on the submarine Tilefish.

"Yes, we scored a few hits," the former gunner's mate-second allowed. "Nine, 10 or 11 kills, I'm not sure which. A Jan cruiser we got off the coast of Honshu a few days before Christmas 1944, was the biggest."

Davis knows what it's like to be the quarry as well as the hunter. He recalls that "somewhere in the Pacific" the Tilefish and a Japanese sub traded torpedoes.

"IT WAS near dusk. We had just surfaced. The skipper almost poked the periscope through the Jap propeller. We went right down again and fired several torpedoes but missed. Then the enemy ship dove too."

"We thought we could pull a 'hooker'—circle out beyond the horizon and try again when the Japs surfaced. But I guess they had a smart skipper who was trying the same thing. Right after we came up they launched a batch of 'fish.' We could see the torpedoes coming and turned the bow of a nuclear blast on the sea bottom at various depths.

Warner grinned when asked what kind of explosion injured him—conventional or atomic.

"I'm still here," he said, confident that this made answers to the question obvious.

And what did he like about the Navy?

"It sure was nice and quiet down there," said mortar chief Warner, who did much of his "sailing" in Davey Jones locker encased in a thick diving suit.

Ex-submariner Davis agreed.

MAJ. GEN. T. J. H. Trapnell, CG of the 82d Abn. Div., right, and Brig. Gen. Robert H. Wienecke, assistant division CG, were among thousands of division members who joined the newly-formed Division Historical Society in its first membership drive. Lt. Col. Gerald W. Davis, division G-2 and executive secretary of the society, presents a lifetime membership card to Gen. Wienecke and the perpetual rolls (for signature) to Gen. Trapnell.

82d Airborne Forms Society To Support Division Museum

FORT BRAGG, N. C.—Thousands of paratroopers of the 82d Abn. Div., gave enthusiastic endorsement to the Division Historical Society by joining the recently formed organization in the first division-wide membership campaign March 31.

The campaign is another step forward in the planning stages for building a permanent division museum. The membership drive will continue until the first part of May.

Many company-size units reported 100 percent subscriptions. This was the first official reaction by the men in the ranks since the Historical Society was approved last month by the commanding general of Fort Bragg.

Maj. Gen. T. J. H. Trapnell, commanding general of the 82d, officially opened the membership drive with a $10 membership fee contribution.

The Historical Society will be the administering body of the new museum, with the objective of promoting and perpetuating the traditions of the division and safeguarding the trophies, documents and mementoes relating to the 82d's history.

THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS of the society, headed by Brig. Gen. Robert H. Wienecke, assistant division commander, held their first meeting a few days before the membership drive got underway. It was during this meeting that cost of membership fees were established.

Enlisted grades E-1 through E-4 will pay $1, E-5 through E-7 $2, company grade officers and warrant officers $3, field grade officers $4, and general officers $10. Once fees are paid personnel are entitled to lifetime membership.

Membership cards will be issued to personnel upon receipt of fees. Their names will be entered on the perpetual rolls that will be on public display at the Museum.

WITH THE CAMPAIGN off to rolling start within the division, word has been received from another quarter which may give added impetus to the drive as it continues. Mr. J. Bernard Stein, chairman of the military affairs committee of the Fayetteville Chamber of Commerce, said that he feels confident citizens of the Fayetteville Community will join the membership campaign in the interest of the project.

At the same time, letters from three former division leaders were received endorsing the program.

Jubilation Spirit Is Strong in Virginia

By FRANKLIN G. SMITH
Travel Editor

It's certainly "de Year ob Jubilo" in the Old Dominion State.

Everywhere the spirit of jubilation is in the air. And the tuneful Negro ballad popularized by the late Will Rogers seems to catch the mood.

The charming Shenandoah Valley city of Staunton started the year off with the centennial celebration of Woodrow Wilson's birth in a stolid Presbyterian Manse there on Dec. 28, 1856.

Down at the Cape Henry Lighthouse, Virginia Beach, surfside capital of the state, took the occasion of Easter to launch a "Golden Jubilee" to mark 50 years of progress as a resort city.

Joining the two other jubilants, Alexandria today starts a week of "Golden Jubilee" festivities to recall some of her historic glories and to celebrate the 50th birthday of her Chamber of Commerce.

All these festivities, while reflecting the cultural, commercial and tourist attractions of their individual communities, and at the same time giving vent to spring exuberance, still must be regarded as preliminary to the Big Jubilee.

That will come next year. It will be international in scope, take most of a year to celebrate, cost some $23,000,000, attract thousands to Virginia and serve as one of the great patriotic events of the century.

THIS is the Jamestown Festival of 1957. Starting April 1 and closing Nov. 30, it will observe the 350th anniversary of the founding of the first English settlement in the New World on James Island on May 13, 1607.

Construction of replicas of the Susan Constant, flagship of the settlers' three-boat fleet; creation of a 35-acre Festival Park; reconstruction of the log-palisaded James Fort; the building of a causeway to the island and scores of other Festival projects are under way.

Spring was a cheering time to the first hard-pressed colonists. The coming of April lifted them out of their winter despair for many reasons. So the month, aside from its gorgeous outbursts of floral beauty, has a special significance to Virginia.

For 22 years, Virginians and their guests have been devoting the month of April to the enjoyment of their flowers and blooms. They call the event "Historic Garden Week in Virginia."

NORFOLK, the State's largest city and the site of the world's largest naval base, began the floral devotions with her Azalea festival on April 9. It will be climaxed this weekend by the International Azalea Court in the city's world-famed Municipal Gardens.

SUSAN CONSTANT (top picture) was the vessel which brought Capt. John Smith and some of the first English colonists to Virginia. Smith was in chains when the ship arrived but was later freed and helped save the expedition from the ravages of the wilderness. Lower picture shows Woodrow Wilson's birthplace at Staunton, Va., one of the "musts" for visitors from all parts of the world expected when Virginia celebrates the centennial of the birth of the famous president.

Jubilee Week in Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—It's Jubilee Week in this historic city. All citizens are joining the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce in the celebration of the first 50 years of its service to the community.

While uniting with the States in the observance of Garden Week during which time such colonial mansions as Lafayette House, Wilson House, Carlyle House and others will be open to visitors, the city will be primarily concerned with its jubilee.

Some of the highlights of the eight-day celebration, beginning today include:

- Dedication of the new $72,000 Chamber Home, built by funds raised by the Women's Division of the Chamber.
- Dedication of renovated Ramsay House, the home of William Ramsay, Alexandria's first and only Lord Mayor.

Just About Everyone Knows About 'Chessie'

While tourist signs reading "George Washington Slept Here" are scattered all over the Eastern Seaboard, they are found most frequently in the First President's native state of Virginia.

Rivalling the "slept here" signs in recent years has been the picture of a slumbering, self-satisfied kitten called "Chessie." This Chessie personifies the hypnotic comfort of riding on a railroad. So fixed in the minds of the traveling public is Chessie that he or she (a matter that has never been determined) is better known in some circles than the railroad (he or she) represents.

The railroad that has ridden Chessie to such heights of fame is the Chesapeake & Ohio whose main line follows a course laid out by George Washington himself. And since young Surveyor Washington slept in a great many caves, hollows, cabins and tents along what is now C. & O.'s 5,100-mile system, and this Chessie rolls night and day over the same route in foam-rubber comfort, the lucky cat and General George have a great deal of "slept here" history in common.

State of Virginia Pushes Plans For Giant Celebration in 1957

ARMY TIMES 19

JAMESTOWN, Va. — One picture portrayed a beautiful Indian princess pleading for the life of an English soldier prostrated under the uplifted ax of an Indian brave.

Another, bearing the caption "Corn of Your Life," showed a scared Indian cowering under the menacing sword of the same fellow for whom the Indian princess pleaded.

These are some of the graphic scenes impressed on the minds of school youth a few generations ago to show them how Capt. John Smith and his starving followers made history in the Virginia wilderness.

Next year, Jamestown, the first English city established in America, will pay homage to Capt. John Smith, Princess Pocahontas (who later became an English Lady), her husband John Rolfe, Capt. Christopher Newport and others who gave the English their first foothold on the new continent.

It was on May 13, 1607 the colony was founded. The year of 1957 marks the 350th anniversary of that event. So Virginia, the United States, England and the rest of the democratic world will participate in the celebration.

It was in this year that three sturdy sailing ships — Godspeed, Susan Constant and Discovery — unloaded the 103 "first permanent settlers" on what their leader christened Jamestown Island.

The keel for a replica of Smith's flagship, the Susan Constant has been laid over in West Norfolk harbor. Giant dredges have scooped up enough of the James River bottom to extend the Virginia Isthmus out to original Jamestown Island.

PLANS have been drawn for the restoration of the 20 thatched houses and triangular fenced bastion that comprised the fort. The National Park Service is spending $8,500,000 on the construction of the 23-mile Colonial Parkway connecting this city with her historic neighbors — Williamsburg and Yorktown.

Williamsburg's great benefactor, John D. Rockefeller, who had already spent more than $30,000,000 on making the city look like it did when it was the colonial capital of Virginia, is going to spend another $12,000,000 on a new information center, art gallery, three-dimensional movie theater and motor hotel to fit into the celebration picture.

Ivy-walled William and Mary College, second to Harvard in age, hopes to have its $1,000,000 Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Auditorium ready for the festivities. And the surrounding cities, such as Norfolk, Virginia Beach, Old Point Comfort, Hampton Roads and Newport News, all of historic importance, will join in the celebration.

Virginia's Governor Stanley has a special State Commission working on the project. President Eisenhower has endorsed the idea as: "important for us to call to the memory the achievements of our forefathers in hewing out of the wilderness a new nation."

One of the major themes of the observance will be the commemoration of the 175th anniversary of the recognition of the United States as a sovereign nation.

Travel Notes

Tour of East Berlin

THE Army's sightseeing tour of East Berlin is perhaps the most popular in the world. It costs only 25 cents.

Passing the Russian war monument near the Brandenburg gate, one hears something like this:

"Until 1953 there was only one Russian soldier on duty at the memorial. One day he left his post and asked for political asylum in the West. Now, there are two guards all the time—one to guard the monument and the other to guard the guard."

The tour lasts for three hours and the three buses are usually filled with servicemen and their dependents and visiting civilians. The Soviet route is well marked by Stalin memorials, parks and squares all named after Russia's "fallen angel."

Air France High

AIR FRANCE reaches new proportions and scope with a total of 177,740 miles of air routes and the transport of 1,837,272 passengers in 1955. Passengers around the globe flew over 177,740 miles of Air France routes with the confidence inspired by career pilots such as Captain J. Hennequin, who recently completed 20,000 hours of flight.

'Wolfhound' Mascot Arrives

MAJ. KENNETH G. GROOM, 2d Bn. CO of the 27th Inf. Regt., greets Kolchak III, a Russian wolfhound presented to the regiment by Mrs. G. Clifton Potter, of Stockton, Calif. Members of the unit accompanying the major at Honolulu airport were, from left, Pvt. Charles Brown, Pvt. Paul Rodriguez and SP3 Elridge Medley. Kolchak will be the new mascot of the "Wolfhound" regiment as soon as he clears quarantine.

Genuine Wolfhound Joins 27th Infantry as Mascot

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, T. H. — The "Wolfhounds" — the 27th Inf. Regt. of the 25th Div. at Schofield Barracks — have a flesh and blood mascot for the first time in 14 years. Kolchak III, as the 110-pound Russian Wolfhound will be known, arrived at Honolulu International Airport March 30, from the west coast.

The name Kolchak derives from Aleksandr Vassilyevich Kolchak, White Russian admiral who led anti-Bolshevik forces in Siberia at the end of War I when the 27th Inf. was also fighting in that country. The present mascot is the third the regiment has owned.

Capt. John Cloninger, highly decorated former member of the Wolfhounds, escorted Kolchak III from the Alpine Borzoi Kennels in Stockton, Calif., to San Francisco. Cloninger, who has become almost legendary to present-day Wolfhounds, holds the Purple Heart with seven oak leaf clusters and began his Army career with the 27th as a private in War II. He led a machine gun platoon in the regiment in Korea.

A slight hitch developed in San Francisco when it was discovered that none of the kennel crates provided by the airlines was large enough to accommodate the dog, but the captain was able to locate a carpenter who made one.

On hand to greet the mascot in Honolulu were several members of the 27th, including Maj. Kenneth G. Groom, whose letter to the Los Angeles Times resulted in the gift of the animal by Mrs. G. Clifton Potter. He hung the traditional lei around the dog's neck.

Despite the more than nine hours which he spent in the crate, Kolchak was friendly and in good spirits. He was turned over to health authorities and taken to quarantine, where he will spend the next four months. After that time he will take up the fortunes of his predecessors, who traditionally led the regiment at parades and reviews.

All About STAMPS

By BILL OLCHESKI

COIN collecting is showing an increasing growth in popularity. While there are no figures available on the exact number of collectors, their growing importance is clearly seen in the amount of space devoted to coin columns and coin ads in stamp and other collector publications.

Stamp and coin collecting go hand-in-hand, with many stamp collectors having at least a box of coins to which they add pieces periodically. While the advanced collector may scoff at this method of accumulation, he has to admit that most stamp and coin collections start in this modest manner.

Coin collectors in the Air Force not only have clubs of their own, they even have their own newspaper. The paper is the "Flying Eagle" edited by T/Sgt. John G. Spadone. For a sample copy drop him a card at: 229 S. 11th St., Newark 7, N. J.

Sgt. Spadone reports he has active contact with at least 50 coin collectors in the service and many more with at least a partial interest in coins.

At Fort Bliss, Tex., the coin collectors of several services join with stamp enthusiasts in the Border Armed Forces Stamp and Coin Society.

The Holloman Air Development Center in New Mexico claims to have the world's champion coin collector in the person of Mr. Peter Payne, an industrial engineer on the base.

He has over 60,000 coins in his collection, including the most complete Moroccan coin collection in the world.

He will be unable to compete in the National Coin Week (Apr. 16-22) activities this year since he has been elected general chairman for the event.

A VALUE of $100,000 has been put on his collection by Mr. Payne. Although he has not confined his collecting to any one country, his specialty is the crown-size or silver dollar-size coin and he has coins bearing the likeness of most kings, queens and emperors of the world.

On Okinawa, AF M/Sgt. Charles Brannon is hard at work expanding his coin collection. He says he can get gold coins easier there than he could in the States. He attributes this in part to having a bit more extra cash while on an overseas assignment.

His collection totals around 1500 coins and is worth about $4000. He is trying to organize a chapter of the American Numismatic Association on Okinawa. Interested collectors in the area can contact him at Hq. 313th Air Div., APO 239, San Francisco, Calif.

FREE ROSTER. We make the same offer to coin clubs as we have for stamp clubs. Send us the name and location of your club, plus the name of the president and the number of members. We will have a roster compiled and will mail one free to

Army Keeps Old 'Copter Flying

WASHINGTON — Recent studies and the development of a modification kit by the Army Transportation Corps have saved a number of over-age Bell H-13 helicopters from the scrap pile.

By reason of design and the inherent problems of old-age, many of the early model helicopters were destined for the salvage dump. However, with the modification kit it is possible to modernize the H-13, valued at approximately $40,000, for only $7000. The YH-13 helicopter, valued at $45,000, can be modernized for only $13,000.

As a result of this modification program, 39 helicopters, with a total value of $1,595,000 have been rebuilt into useful modern aircraft.

NOW! YOU CAN OWN A FULL 1/2 ACRE IN FABULOUS FLORIDA!

Only $10 down and $10 a Month—Total Price... $495
No Interest or Carrying Charges... No Taxes 'Til Lot is Paid For!

FLORIDA LAND FOR PROFIT

Florida will be fourth largest state in population in 1960 according to reliable predictions

Good Land Near a Growing City Means Profit for Land-Owners

Just $10 down, $10 per month... no interest or carrying charges... buys a FULL half-acre of high, dry land. Every 1/2-acre facing a fully graded road. Fourteen miles from one of Florida's fastest-growing West Coast cities... even nearer a newly developed retirement city.

Records for past 20 years prove Florida real estate has been increasing steadily, soundly in value... and present trend reveals a rapidly stepped-up rate of increase. Florida is second fastest-growing state in nation, FASTEST-growing east of the Mississippi!

HAPPINESS—Now or in retirement years ahead, you and your family can live near the sunny shores of the Gulf of Mexico. You can enjoy the quiet leisure of fishing, hunting, swimming, golf year 'round. Yet your lot at Lehigh Acres in Lee County will be less than 15 miles from flourishing Fort Myers on Florida's southwest coast and just a few hours' drive from exciting Miami and Miami Beach!

HEALTH—Lee County's 78° temperature is a godsend to those prone to colds, arthritis, or rheumatism. Since the pollen count is one of the lowest in the nation, hay fever and asthma sufferers enjoy year 'round freedom. And with the health-giving Vitamin D the radiant sun provides, it's no wonder Census figures prove you live longer in Florida!

PEACE OF MIND—Security for twilight years is yours the moment you dip the coupon below. Whether your income is $1,000 or $12,000 a year, you can live like a king in Lehigh Acres. Food, taxes, clothing, home maintenance costs are LOWER in Lee County, and, if you wish, part-time work is plentiful in Florida's fast-growing southwest section.

A REAL INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY—Even if you're years away from retiring, Lehigh Acres is a sound "speculation" investment. You'll have the reassuring knowledge that if land values continue to rise as they have in the past 20 years, by the time your 1/2 acre is paid for, it may be worth 5 or 10 times your original purchase price!

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT FORT MYERS

LOCATION: In Lee County, southwest Gulf Coast of Florida, on the fabulous Collier-Seminole River.

TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES: Rail service, Atlantic Coast Line; Bus service, Tanglewood Trail Lines and Glades Motor Lines; National Airlines.

CHURCHES: 10 churches of all denominations.

SHOPPING CENTERS: Metropolitan Fort Myers is trading center for a large area, and important chain stores from all over the country are represented.

INCOME SOURCES: Fort Myers is winter garden center of the world; fine beef and dairy herds make a multi-million dollar industry; truck crops, citrus shipping, commercial fishing, shopping, hunting and light industry are also big business.

SCHOOLS: Lee County has a modern $1,500,000 Junior-Senior High School and 11 primary schools. Free bus service.

HOSPITALS: $300,000 was collected recently for a new addition to the already completely equipped Fort Myers Hospital.

BASEBALL: Pittsburgh Pirates maintain spring training quarters here, and play exhibition games each year.

10 BIG REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD OWN A HALF-ACRE IN LEHIGH ACRES

- REASON 1. The total cost of half-acre is LOW... the down payments are LOW... the monthly payments are LOW! All purchases carry full, long-term exchange privileges and FREE title-guarantee insurance policies.
- REASON 2. All the robbly half-acres are on HIGH, DRY, desirable land, fronting on a fully-graded road.
- REASON 3. Gas, electricity, water, and telephone facilities are available.
- REASON 4. Many excellent building contractors can provide you with the finest low-cost housing to be found anywhere in the U.S. BEST OF ALL—you can build NOW or LATER—whichever fits your plans best!
- REASON 5. Maintenance on your home will be unbelievably LOW—no costly heating expense ever!
- REASON 6. Churches, schools, and shopping centers are numerous and nearby!
- REASON 7. The unusually rich and fertile soil of Lee County means you can grow your own fruits and vegetables—plenty for the whole family!
- REASON 8. You're NEAR EVERYTHING when you live in Lee County—all the sports and recreation pleasures that millionaires pay huge sums each winter to enjoy!
- REASON 9. The economy of Fort Myers and Lee County is sound—business is flourishing, and the future is bright!
- REASON 10. Lehigh Acres represents your retirement dream come true—a real investment opportunity!

TYPICAL QUESTIONS ABOUT PROPERTY AT LEHIGH ACRES AND THEIR ANSWERS

Mr. J. C. B. of San Mateo asks:
What are the restrictions on zoning laws?

Answer: Lehigh Acres has been developed as a planned community with business areas set aside from residential areas for the protection of the home-owner.

Mr. F. R. B. of Cleveland asks:
What about taxes after the lot has been paid for?

Answer: They are completely negligible—practically pay-as-you-go. And when you come down to Florida to build, you may file for Homestead Exemption, which automatically exempts $5,000 of the assessed valuation of your home.

Mr. H. T. of Lynchburg, L.I., asks:
What utilities are now available?

Answer: There is exceptionally fine well water for the water supply; electric power and telephone facilities are already present on the property; and bottled gas (the form most popular and most commonly used by Florida residents) will be immediately available. Incidentally, bottled gas is considerably cheaper than the natural kind.

Mr. A. H. R. of Louisville asks:
How is sewage being handled?

Answer: Complete sewerage and water systems are planned, but home-owners now building are using septic tanks and well water, both of which are completely adequate.

Mr. P. E. of Ocala asks:
What transportation is provided to schools, Fort Myers, etc.?

Answer: Free transportation between Lehigh Acres and nearby schools is now provided, in accordance with Florida law. In addition, a new, wide country road going directly to Fort Myers has just been constructed, which will make the driving time from Lehigh Acres to Fort Myers only 15 minutes. As more and more of Lehigh Acres is built up, Fort Myers will extend bus lines to the property.

Mr. E. P. of Pittsburgh asks:
Is the Lehigh Acres land ready for building?

Answer: Yes, indeed. One whole section has been completely cleared, and others will be opened up shortly.

Mr. L. T. of Winston-Salem asks:
What does title insurance mean?

Answer: This invaluable insurance protects you from any possible dispute or challenge as to the ownership of rights to your property.

Mr. J. H. W. of South Bend asks:
Is there proper drainage at Lehigh Acres?

Answer: Exceptionally good drainage. Although the property is among the highest in this area, the Lee County Land & Title Co. has designed the most scientific drainage system, which is now under construction.

Another AAA Family Moves In

REPRESENTING the community, Miss Lorri Kawiaki — "Miss Northeast Detroit" — turns over the keys to one of 36 homes leased for antiaircraft personnel stationed in the Detroit area. Col. Lee J. Davis, CO, 28th AAA Group, accepted the keys and passed them on to SFC Norman Bragg and his wife Wanda, who moved in immediately. Bragg is a fire control platoon sergeant in B Btry., 99th AAA Gun. Bn.

'Old Ironsides' Tab Authorized For 1st Armd.

FORT POLK, La. — An "Old Ironsides" tab has been approved by the Department of Army for wear by men of the 1st Armd Div.

The tab will be worn on the left sleeve, one-eighth of an inch below the triangular division shoulder insignia. The tab is three and a half inches wide and one-half inch deep bearing the inscription "Old Ironsides" in black letters five-sixteenths of an inch in height on a yellow background.

The division was christened "Old Ironsides" in 1941 by Maj. Gen. Bruce R. Magruder, then commander. He had wanted a name for the division for some time and was looking over some suggestions he had received when he glanced at a picture on his wall. It was the USS Constitution, the famous "Old Ironsides" of our early history. "With our armor and the will to fight it out," said Gen. Magruder, "it seemed to me an ideal name."

PsyWar Center Chief Gets New Assignment

FORT BRAGG, N. C. — After two and a half years at Fort Bragg, Col. Edson D. Raff, Commanding Officer of The Psychological Warfare Center, has received orders from Washington directing him to a new assignment in Europe.

Raff will be temporarily replaced by William J. Mullen Jr., Commanding Officer of the 77th Special Forces Group, Airborne, who also has been alerted for overseas assignment. Mullen is scheduled to report in June to CINCPAC in Hawaii.

A pioneer paratrooper who employed guerrilla warfare tactics in North Africa during World War II, Raff came here in November 1953 to take command of the 77th Special Forces Group, Airborne.

New Cadet Pay Credit Bill Filed

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON. — Rep. Sterling Cole (R., N. Y.) has introduced HR 10212 to give pay credit for military academy and ROTC service. This is a simplified version of his previous bill, HR 7280.

The new bill, which will have Defense Department support—and is not expected to meet with any particular Bureau of the Budget adverse reaction — will give credit to active duty officers for ROTC and academy time following four years of active duty.

To be credited with the four years of "student time" the individual must have completed the prescribed course at either the service academies or ROTC. As now worded it is not necessary that graduation be part of the requirement.

After four years of active duty the officer would jump to eight years of service for pay purposes. The time cannot be counted for completion of necessary time for retirement.

In other words, these four years of student time cannot be added to the 16 years of active duty to make the minimum of 20 years for retirement under PL 810.

HR 10212 would amend certain provisions under Title II of PL 810 whereby an officer computes his retirement, after 20 years of active duty, by 2½ percent of his rate of pay multiplied by the number of years credited for pay purposes. These four years could not be included for this purpose, only for determination of the active duty rate of pay.

There is every indication that the Kilday subcommittee of the House Armed Services committee will shortly hold hearings on the Cole bill. Defense Department will give the measure active support.

For the first time since 1912, when the cadet service ceased to be creditable, it looks as if the benefit may be restored. During the past 44 years, graduates have given up hope of ever getting action on this.

WAC Is Named Soldier of Month

FORT HOLABIRD, Md. — A WAC has been named Soldier of the Month at Fort Holabird for the first time in the post's history.

She is Pvt. Sharmaine V. Wolf of Cincinnati, Ohio, who was chosen for the honor over four male finalists in the competition.

Like the men who have been Soldier of the Month in the past, Private Wolf will serve as flag bearer for Maj. Gen. Boniface Campbell, Commanding General of Fort Holabird, at all parades and ceremonies during the current month. Campbell also presented a letter of commendation and a check for $15 to the woman soldier.

Private Wolf has worked as a clerk-typist in the Troop Command office since she was assigned to Fort Holabird last September. In her off-duty time, she helped to organize Fort Holabird's first WAC drill team and is now its manager. Active in sports, she is a member of WAC basketball and softball teams here.

They mean advanced work in an important field...they pay top salaries...provide top benefits...they're with a company known throughout industry for engineering excellence.

You'll be putting your best engineering thinking to good use in the design, development, evaluation, and project coordination of radar, microwave transmission systems, servo mechanisms, and other electronic equipment, and structures design and analysis for Naval Ordnance. Emphasis is on original creative thinking and you'll be working with some of the best minds in the business.

GE will do everything possible to help you advance quickly through in-plant courses...management training...a Full Tuition Refund Plan for graduate study...and a record expansion that virtually insures rapid progress to able men.

These are opportunities worth investigating!

Wave of Heads Under Water Might Get Us Back on Keel

By PAUL GOOD

"THERE'S a man what gets my vote," the Old Argufyer said the other day, tapping a heavy forefinger on his newspaper for emphasis.

"I'm glad somebody else gets your goat besides me," I replied. "The last two weeks in this orderly room have been nothing short of cruel and unusual punishment."

"I said vote, not goat, sonny. An' as for the last weeks bein' rough, you gotta understan' I been under a awful strain. First, that Swede girl Ann Ekberg got engaged leavin' two key men in the weapons platoon inconsolable an' of no use to the company, the Army in general or me in particular. I told 'em they wouldn't have had a chance with Marjorie Main even, but it don't do no good.

"Then some near-sighted cook dumped cayenne in the stew when the colonel dropped by for lunch last week an' I thought I'd have to call out the Fire Department the way the man carried on about his mouth burnin'. I tried to explain that it was better to burn than to taste the stew the way it generally is, but he got real thick about it an' looked like he wanted to fetch me a clout with his crop.

"As if things wasn't bad enough, the missus has been beatin' my ears raw over Grace Kelly's weddin'.

Rousseau on Women: They Don't Use Books

"The world is the book of women. Whatever knowledge they may possess is more commonly acquired by observation than by reading."—Rousseau.

an' about now I wish the Prince of Monaco had never been invented. The whole thing has been turned into a circus by love-nutty women an' it wouldn't surprise me none if a move got underway to have the royal couple honeymoon in Madison Square Garden so's nothin' would escape the public's bloodshot eyes.

"But you got me off the point I was tryin' to make. Which is that I read here that a perferesser from some midwest college just set the all-time record for stayin' underwater holdin' his breath. This feller played fish for better'n 10 minutes which makes me short of wind just to think of it."

"Well, it certainly is a remarkable record, Sarge. But I don't see why it interests you so much. I never knew that you were interested in experimentation of that type."

"I ain't interested in experimentation of that type or any type. An' I hope the perferesser ain't interested in experymentin', either. The whole thing strikes me as a good example of a man doin' somethin' useless for the general hell of it an' as such I think it's a healthy sign.

"NOW MEBBE this perferesser is doin' research on a book tellin' hoomans how to grow gills. But I think it's more likely he got a little bored with the way the world was behavin' looked aroun' for somethin' to take his mind off John Foster Dulles an' the Gaza an' Ann Corio strips, an' said:

"I could fake a raft an' get away from it all. But lately anybody with six balsa wood logs to his name is raftin' it across the ocean tryin' to prove somethin' or other, an' I don't want to prove nothin'. There's always the idea of goin' on a hunger strike to relieve the monotony but as I got the appetite of a wolf, that wouldn't do. Mebbe I'll just see how long I can hold my head under water. Yeah, that oughta take the sting out of worryin' about the H-bomb for one day."

"Now I could be all wrong about this feller. He might be serious as Norman Vincent Peale readin' scripture. But I like to think he's just enjoyin' hisself an' thumbin' his nose at all the big-domed thinkin' goin' on in the world. It's the kind of thing this country needs today, sonny."

"Years ago, fr' instance, when people got fed up listen' to politicians yappin' their same old fak-in' tunes, they could take their minds off such afflictions by goin' down to the corner an' watchin' a flagpole sitter. Now flagpole sittin' ain't the kind of career I'd like my sons to have, but seein' them boys up there years ago helped put the world in better balance. Dipplymats might be negotiatin' treaties sellin' out both sides, an' assorted pestilences threatenin' to carry off the hooman race in one swell swoop, but flagpole sitters seemed to be sayin': What the hell, mates, it's a funny kind of a slambang world nobody can figger out, so let's enjoy it while we can by doin' whatever we want to do."

"I AIN'T partial to college boys in particular but I always had a warm spot in my heart for them lads what used to swally goldfish at Harvard. An' for the same reason that I liked flagpole sitters. Of course, Kinsey come along an' goldfish swallyin' got traded in for panty raidin', which strikes me as pretty unfunny."

"You might say, Sarge, that the

Did This Man Kill His Wife?

By A. C. GORDON

THE little one-room vacation cottage is a busy place tonight. A police photographer is snapping pictures of the dead body of middle-aged Mrs. Susan Timmons, which is sprawled face-down in the middle of the floor. Other policemen are searching the room for fingerprints and other clues. You turn to talk with the distraught husband.

"Mr. Timmons, will you tell me exactly how your wife was murdered?"

"It's painful to talk about it," Timmons begins tearfully, "but I certainly want to do all I can to help you catch the killer. Susan and I were going to a movie tonight, and knowing that there have been a number of burglaries around here lately, I took extra precautions—locked the windows tight, turned off the lights, and bolted the door."

"We were gone for almost three hours . . . returned here at about ten o'clock tonight. As soon as I opened the door I heard someone moving about in the room. He must have gotten nervous. I yelled out something, and he fired several shots at both of us . . . missed me, but hit poor Susan. She fell forward . . . dead!"

Timmons gazes down at his wife's body for a minute, then continues: "After the thief fired the shots, he clambered out the window before I could move. He must have pried it open in order to get in. I could see that he had red hair, a mustache, wore blue denim trousers and a brown jacket."

"Did the thief get away with any of your possessions?" you ask. "No . . . nothing, so far as I can see. I guess we interrupted him too soon. Oh, I hope you'll be able to catch him!"

"I think we already have him, Mr. Timmons," you then state. "You're coming with us to tell us just how you killed your wife!"

What makes you suspect Timmons of killing his wife?

In the second place, Timmons could not have obtained such a full description of the "intruder" in a DARK room!

or Large Stock Dividends

PURCHASE of a stock prior to a split usually results in a substantial profit. For example, American Gas & Electric advanced about 8 points prior to and following a 3-for-2 split announcement recently. Minnesota Mining rose over 20 points in a short period under similar circumstances. Standard Oil N. J. has moved up over 30 points in the weeks since the first news of its stock split. Strong active markets provide a favorable background for splits, and many more can be expected.

A list of 36 companies likely to announce stock splits or large stock dividends has just been prepared by UNITED'S Staff. These are strong, prosperous concerns where earnings are favorable and where dividend increases can easily be afforded. The background in each case points to a stock split eventually and an increase in the cash dividend. Current dividends on these stocks offer you yields up to 6%.

Big Savings With Moderate Income?

COULD a man (wife and two children) who never earned more than a top salary of $5600 a year, retire with $42,100 of savings?

A financial writer for a popular column says he could.

That statement started quite a controversy but the columnist came back bolstering his claim with a whole battery of statistics based on figures and reports from pension fund and retirement income experts. This was a civilian family, but a military man, considering various allowances, fringe benefits, etc., would be in approximately the same bracket if he were say, a captain with 10 years service. That officer, of course, receives extra cash and fringe benefits.

THE CIVILIAN in this case started out his savings on a salary of $3000 a year. Out of that he saved two dollars a week, which seems reasonable enough. Every time he got a raise, instead of increasing his expenditures by the total amount of his pay-boost, he put one-fourth of it in savings. That also seems reasonable though it would take a certain amount of will-power.

One of the doubters who wrote in said that his case was parallel, that he had a wife and two children, he was at the time earning $6700, was quite a way from retirement but couldn't possibly accumulate $42,900.

The columnist came right back with more data. He said that his man, when he was drawing $4700, would be paying Federal income taxes of $371, Social Security $84, saving $333, totaling about $1030, which leaves, for spending money, $3670, or about $300 a month. All this while he was on his way to hatching that savings egg when he retired; a nice supplement to Social Security or other (if he's a military man) pension.

THE NATIONAL Foundation for Consumer Credit said this week that 44 million of the 54 million American families either owe nothing at all or less than $500 on installment accounts, adding:

"Of those owing more than $500, 83 percent own over $2000 a year, and balances when over $500 overwhelmingly represent automobile accounts."

WILLIAM J. HALLEY, president of the P. Lorillard Company, has been presented with the 1955-56 Annual Meeting Award of the United Shareholders of America for "his notable leadership" as head of the company and "meritorious achievement in the field of management-shareholder relationship."

PEOPLE: Robert C. Tait, president of the Stromberg-Carlson Company, a division of General Dynamics Corp., was elected a director of the Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., Rochester, N. Y. . . . appointment of Elden H. Olsen as director of engineering for the Aeronautical Division of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co., was announced this week by S. F. Keating, divisional vice president.

Save and Earn Too!

It's getting simpler to save and make money in the doing.

More and more established financial houses are catering to the small investor by offering regular payment plans for the purchase of good common stocks. Some seven and a half million people in the United States are stockholders today.

The average return to the holders of New York Exchange common stocks which have been paying dividends for the past five years has ranged from 4.5% to 5.5% or $4.30 to $5.50 for every hundred dollars invested.

It is now possible to buy stocks on a regular, supervised, installment plan requiring as little as $40 a month or even only $40 once in three months.

There are many advantages to these programs. The first is that they encourage the savings habit. They also include the expert advice, free of charge, by regular New York Stock Exchange member firms. They provide the diversion, that is, the purchase of stocks in widely varying enterprises, necessary for protection, the factor stressed by all sound financial advisers and recognized as essential in any long-range savings program.

THE JOHNSTON Mutual Fund,

Inc., reports net assets on March 31 of $5,180,056.31, equivalent to $21.85 per share, compared with $2,000,548.57, or $19.50 per share, a year ago.

jazz

By TOM SCANLAN

IF you prefer trumpet players who cuddle up to a tune daintily and play real delicate like, don't bother to read the next four paragraphs. Subject matter is a superior new LP featuring an old pro who plays a solid, virile, honest horn. Roy Eldridge is the name.

Roy's new LP is labeled "Little Jazz" (his nickname) and he gets excellent support from a rhythm section composed of pianist Oscar Peterson, guitarist Herb Ellis, bassman Ray Brown, who make up the Peterson Trio, and drummer Buddy Rich.

The Eldridge horn crackles and swings and bites and drives its way through eight standards and the net result is one of the best jazz albums of the year.

The songs are Foggy Day, Blue Moon, Stormy Weather, Sweethearts on Parade, If I Had You, Only Have Eyes for You, Sweet Georgia Brown and The Song Is Ended.

The colorful, dynamic 45-year-old trumpeter has always been one of the genuine greats in jazz and he proves it again with this album (Clef 12-inch LP MG C-683).

HANK JONES, one of the best of the modern pianists who is now playing with Benny Goodman's new band, is featured on two recent records well worth your time and attention. One labeled "The Trio" is with bassman Wendell Marshall and drummer Kenny Clarke (Savoy 12-inch LP MG-12023). Other is labeled the Hank Jones Quartet-Quintet and teams Hank up with trumpeters Donald Byrd and Matty Dice, bassman Eddie Jones and drummer Clarke.

On the second one, Byrd plays some excellent modern horn, swinging up a storm on Almost Like Being in Love as well as doing a fine job with the ballad Don't Blame Me. Byrd, a youngster out of Detroit, ranks as one of the most talented of the trumpet newcomers. He swings, has a good tone, and ideas (or "conception" as they say in some jazz circles today). Bassman Jones, a member of Count Basie's band, has a big tone and is a major

Addison on Puns

"Punning is a conceit arising from the use of two words that agree in the sound, but differ in the sense. The only way, therefore, to try a piece of wit, is to translate it into a different language; if it bears the test, you may pronounce it true; but if it vanishes in the experiment, you may conclude it to have been a pun."—Joseph Addison.

reason for the side's success. Dice, the other trumpet player, is no Byrd.

On both LPs, Jones plays with professional know-how, feeling, a good beat, and taste. Incidentally, modernists may be interested to know that Jones, more associated with modern jazz than with the kind Benny Goodman favors, says it's kicks to be playing with Benny's band, according to Down Beat. "If it swings, it's got to be good," said Jones of Benny's band. The man here agrees.

Classical Records

By E. KAHN

Mozart, Mass in C Major, K. 317 ("Coronation"); Maria Stader, soprano, Sieglinde Wagner, alto, Helmut Krebs, tenor, Josef Greindl, bass; Symphony No. 38 in D Major, K. 504 ("Prague"). The Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Igor Markevitch. (12-inch Decca DL-9505) $3.98.

Decca has made a real contribution in this recording of the "Coronation" Mass. The music, criticized by some because it is not church-like, is splendid Mozart. Igor Markevitch and the soloists have turned in a tremendous performance—certainly far and away the best version available on records. The sound is unusually spacious, with a genuine cathedral feeling. The overside contains a perfectly acceptable reading of the Prague symphony. Despite the strange coupling, the record is highly recommended—it is in a class with Decca's fine recording of Beethoven's Missa Solemnis.

Smetana, Quartet No. 1 in E minor ("From My Life"); Glazounov, Five Novelettes. The Hollywood String Quartet. (12-inch Capitol P-8331) $3.98.

The Hollywood String Quartet is making itself a fine reputation for sensitive musicianship. Their performance here is impeccable, and it has been recorded so as to be practically indistinguishable from the real thing. Smetana and Glazounov are not usually thought of as chamber music composers. Here, however, they have written rich and romantic music that will probably live for some time after their more popular works have palled on the listening public.

Russians Songs. Boris Christoff, bass, with the F. Potorjinski Russian Choir. (12-inch RCA Victor LM-1945) $3.98.

Boris Christoff is in superb voice and in his element. His vigor and feeling for this music come through especially well in the folk songs, which create a genuine Old Russian atmosphere. Many will find "Down Pitskaya Street" familiar; it was used by Stravinsky in Petrouchka. With some justice, Christoff has been called Chaliapin's heir. One real test of this is the Gretchanioff Litany. Although Christoff is excellent, the old Chaliapin version (also on RCA) is still tops with me.

POPULAR RECORDS

BAND WITH A BEAT is the title of the latest LP by HiFi Records. This should interest hi-fi addicts because these records have exceptional sound. The 24-piece band is directed by Harry Zimmerman and it includes such instruments as tuba, glockenspiel and piccolos. Songs, all given a band beat, include Sentimental Journey, Alexander's Ragtime Band, I Love a Parade, The Breeze and I, Washington & Lee Swing and St. Louis Blues. At times, as the liner notes read, the band does sound more like 48 pieces than 24. (HiFi Record 12-inch LP R-602.) It's also available on tape.

NAT COLE does his usual professional job on a new song, "Never Let Me Go" which could catch on (Capitol 45-14884). Tune is featured in the Carol Ohmart movie "The Scarlet Hour," soon to be released. Other side is "Too Young to Go Steady," from the Broadway show, "Strip for Action."

STAN FREBERG pokes fun at "The Great Pretender" rock-and-roll song (Capitol 45-15103). It includes an amusing running conversation between the singer (?) and the pianist, a hip guy who doesn't dig the noise. Other side is "The Quest for Bridey Hammerschlaugen" based on the Bridey Murphy deal. It isn't very funny. A formerly famous senator is satirized again in the process.

GORDON MACRAE does a pleasant job with "I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face" from the new hit Broadway show "My Fair Lady" (Capitol 45-15145). Other side is "Who Are We?"

TONI HARPER, famous for her record of "Candy Store Blues" a few years ago when she was just a kid, is now a big girl of almost 19. She does an excellent job with "I Telephoned, I Telegraphed" and "We've Got to Live, Got to Grow" (Verve 2005). Toni has a good voice, a beat, and a knowledge of what she's doing. She says she is neither a jazz singer or a pop singer but "something in between." However she is classified. The girl can sing.

JERI SOUTHERN, one of the best vocalists in the business, sings "Don't Explain," the song by Billie Holiday and Arthur Herzog, Jr., on another vocal record worth a spin (Decca 9-29768). Other side is "Where Walks My True Love."

Law Book Is Better Than Its Title

By Maj. THOMAS J. SAXON

MILITARY JUSTICE IN THE ARMED FORCES OF THE UNITED STATES by Robinson O. Everett. Footnoted and indexed. Military Service Publishing Co., Harrisburg, Pa. 333 pages. $5.

Undoubtedly the layman's first reaction to this book will be to recoil in fright with the belief that here's another of those tomes—filled with all the legal jargon that every sea lawyer sprouts, but can't explain.

But, refreshingly enough, that isn't the case with "Military Justice." It's unique in the sense that the book is written for the non-lawyer, sailor, soldier, Marine, and airman—as well as the military and civilian lawyer.

This factor, in itself, makes the volume a worthy contribution. A number of treatises have been published on the many phases and problems of military law under UCMJ. But Mr. Everett is perhaps the first to attempt to cover, comprehensively and systematically, each step from the filing of charges, through investigation and trial, to the progress of a court-martial through appellate processes.

HOW DOES the author manage to present a volume "dealing with military law, one calculated to be sufficiently free from technicality to aid the non-lawyer, yet detailed enough to be of utility to attorneys and law students?"

First, technical matters are, in the main, located in footnotes—which may be ignored by the general reader, if desired. The lawyer, however, has the footnotes to follow and through them is led to pertinent precedents and other sources of law. This device leaves the text relatively simple and intelligible to the layman—without "over generalization, exaggeration or distortion of the subject matter."

Throughout his concise text Mr. Everett's objectivity and lucid presentation of the principles and practices of military penal law are as evident as his desire to write a timely, "beginning-to-end" volume on military law as it really works.

New Novels Show Life in Wehrmacht

By BOB HOROWITZ

THE REVOLT OF GUNNER ASCH, by Hans Hellmut Kirst, translated from the German by Robert Kee. Little-Brown & Co., Boston. 311 pages. $3.95.

THE CROSS OF IRON, by Willi Heinrich. Bobbs-Merrill, Indianapolis. 456 pages. $4.50.

A flood of post-War II military literature has been pouring out of Germany lately. Two of the most recent books are written from different points of view, but they both point out the horrors of the old German military life.

"The Revolt of Gunner Asch" is a humorous study of time-wasting life in a German peacetime garrison. It is serious, yet it is a comedy, with elements of farce (with the soldier leaving his pants in front of his girl friend's house and sneaking back into camp).

The characterizations in Gunner Asch's book are better than in "The Cross of Iron." In the latter, a story of a German platoon fighting its way out of serious trouble on the Russian front, the soldiers are too much like the Germans who appeared in Hollywood movies dealing with War II.

The Gunner Asch book, however, is like a "See Here, Pvt. Hargrove" with a serious attempt to portray real people. Throughout the story, the German military system takes a severe beating from the very people who do their best to uphold that system.

For example, there is the episode in which the super-correct corporal decides to press serious charges against his disrespectful subordinate, Gunner Asch. The corporal carefully writes out his charges, according to the manual, and hands them in to the sergeant major. The sergeant major, a pompous bore, studies these charges, which could send a man to prison for life. Then he hands back the piece of paper to the corporal and solemnly declares:

Throughout, the book is funny, the episodes are interesting; the people behave as we would expect them to behave in real life.

BOOKS

there is plenty of action—the Germans fight a relentless enemy, they capture a Russian women's mortar outfit, they kill a prisoner.

The battle scenes are described accurately and minutely.

• Both good books.

New Officer's Guide Ready

THE 22d edition of The Officer's Guide is off the press. This book, published by the Military Service Publishing Co. of Harrisburg, Pa., has been the number one guide for Army officers for the past quarter of a century. The Times' associate editor Bill Kreh has a couple of stories in A Hand-

COOKING

WITH

Try This Pizza Pie

TO the inexperienced cook, Pizza Pie may seem like one of those impossible things to prepare—a novelty to enjoy only on those occasions when we go to a good Italian restaurant. There's nothing to be said for leaving all the responsibility to a professional chef, but actually, there's no reason to be afraid to tackle Pizza Pie yourself. This recipe from Gen. Pinky Dorn's cookbook calls for a packaged hot roll mix, which takes care of all the hard part. Here's the recipe:

- 1 pkg. hot roll mix
- 2 No. 2½ cans Italian-style tomatoes
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- ¼ tsp. oregano
- ¼ cup finely chopped parsley
- ¼ tsp. salt
- Pepper to taste
- 1 lb. pork sausage, cooked
- ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- Olive oil
- ½ lb. Italian sausage

Prepare the hot roll mix as directed on the package. Allow to rise in a warm place until double in bulk.

Drain tomatoes and combine with all other ingredients except oil and Italian sausage.

Roll out the dough to fit a cookie sheet. (About 11 inches by 15 inches for this quantity to get a thin sheet of dough). Brush with olive oil. Spread the tomato mixture over the dough. Dot with small pieces of cooked Italian sausage.

Bake in a 400 degree oven for 25 minutes and serve hot. Serves 8.

(Editor's Note: Any reader wishing to own a copy of Gen. Dorn's cookbook may have one by sending $4.95 to Army Times, 2020 M St., N. W., Washington 4, D. C.)

All About Moderate Drinking

By CAROL ARNDT

WHAT, WHEN, WHERE AND HOW TO DRINK, by Richard L. Williams and David Myers, with foreword by Sherman Billingsley. Bobb-Merrill Co., Inc., Indianapolis. 159 pages, $2.50.

Pointing out that alcohol has a place in society so long as it is used and not abused, the authors of this book try to show how to get the most out of it without letting it bring out the worst in you.

The book explains the various kinds of liquors and how best to use them.

There's an interesting section on drinking abroad, with countries and prices named. It is useful to know, when planning that next vacation, that in Nassau and the Bahamas a fifth of scotch costs about $3.50, a bottle of rum $1.50, while in the Virgin Islands you buy scotch for $2.25, cognac for $3 and perfectly good rum for 75c.

In the cocktail department, four pages are devoted to canapés, dips, spreads, and such delicacies as pickled mushrooms, cheese balls and pigs in blankets.

Another recipe section comes in under the heading of "Wine and Spirits in the Kitchen," includes such imaginative recipes as shrimps cooked in beer, fish poached in wine, baked apples with muscatel wine, rum baba and molasses rum-sauce.

The bar recipes take up the last 38 pages of the book, and consist of the tried and true reliables. These were selected by Leon Lemal, head bartender of the Brussels Restaurant in New York City.

Aside from being a guide to help you get the best out of drinking and entertaining, the book also supplies the answers to oft repeated questions at cocktail parties—What does "proof" mean? When the label says "100 proof" does that mean the bottle contains 100% alcohol? How is whiskey aged? What gives it "character"? What is a blend? How did gin get its name?

According to the authors, we are indirectly indebted to Lady Randolph Churchill, Sir Winston's mother, and Samuel J. Tilden, one-time governor of New York, for the Manhattan cocktail.

Miami Will Have 1000 Room Hotel

MIAMI, Fla. — Construction of Florida's first thousand-room hotel is scheduled to get under way in downtown Miami this summer with the opening set for the fall of 1957.

The ultra-modern establishment will be located on the bayfront near the mouth of the Miami River, just a stone's throw away from the site of Henry M. Flagler's famous old Royal Palm Hotel, first full-fledged tourist hotel in the Miami area.

The structure, to be built by newspaper publisher John Randolph Hearst, is expected to cost $16 million. Plans call for a large convention hall and two swimming pools.

A Trend

IN THIS season of distinctly feminine fashions, a trend toward the use of men's wear fabrics is interesting. Typical men's wear material takes on a quite different character in women's suits, as you can see from the above. This one has almost year-round wearability.

Car's Cooling System Needs Care in Spring

EVERY year U.S. car owners have 4.5 million radiators repaired, and another 600,000 radiators have to be replaced, reports Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation, Baltimore, Md. The usual cause: improper care of the cooling system, overlong use of anti-freeze.

And, there's more than the cooling system that needs tending in spring. Tires should be inspected and rotated, the car washed and waxed for summer protection, winter grade oil and grease replaced with warm weather grades.

Most of these things the motorist knows. But the experts are appalled that he neglects the cooling system of his car. Such a car is not safe to drive—and the neglect costs money, they say.

COMPLETE protection includes draining the cooling system, then cleaning it with a reliable cooling system cleanser. An insurance against loss of a coolant, a stop-leak chemical should be added, and finally, a combination water pump lubricant and anti-rust compound.

The cooling system and lubrication systems of the engine are interdependent. A check-up not only guards against corrosion and rust, it protects against overheating which can result in serious damage to the engine—burned valves, cracked cylinder block, scored cylinder walls, improper lubrication, and many other troubles.

TOO MANY people do not pay any attention to their car's cooling system other than to add water or anti-freeze, says W. Adrian King, automotive specialist with the Mathieson Corporation, a major producer of anti-freeze solutions and other automotive chemicals.

• What is remedy for enlarged pores?

Mix 4 ounces of elderflower water, ½ ounce eau de cologne, 1 dram tincture of benzoin, 10 grains tannic acid, and apply twice daily. Get the approval of your physician or druggist before using.

• How can I make the surface of aluminum look like new?

By pouring a few ounces of vinegar in each aluminum utensil. Heat it and then scour the surface.

• How can I remove perspiration stains from garments?

By mixing one part of oxalic acid to twenty parts of water and applying with a small brush.

• How can I prevent tearing when loosening the leaves of head lettuce?

Cut out the core, place in a bowl under the cold water faucet, and turn water on full. The lettuce will loosen and can be easily pulled to pieces.

• How can I keep clothing free from moths?

The odor of branches of the arbor vitae is very pleasant and wholesome, and will keep the clothing that is to be packed away free of moths.

• How can I make a substitute for soap?

In an emergency, oatmeal is an excellent substitute for soap. Place a small quantity in a cheesecloth bag and wash just as if using a bar of soap.

• How can I clear willow furniture?

Use a solution of salt and water. Apply to furniture with a stiff brush, scrub well and then dry thoroughly. The furniture will also last longer through this method of cleaning.

• How can I bleach a straw hat that is badly sunburned?

Remove the band and fasten the hat to the inside of a wooden box. Then invert the box over a dish of burning sulphur.

• How can I make fried potatoes a nice golden brown?

By sprinkling a little flour on them before frying.

• How can I test the freshness of an egg when purchasing?

Look at the shell. If rough and dull, it is newly-laid. When eggs age, the shells become smoother and somewhat glossy. The color has nothing to do with the quality or age of an egg.

• How can I remove stains from the finger nails?

Squeeze one teaspoonful of lemon juice into one cup of warm water, dip the fingers into it, and let them remain for a few minutes. This will also soften the cuticle.

Five Generals' Wives Attend Coffee at Knox

FORT KNOX, Ky.—Five generals' wives gathered for a coffee at the Student Regiment Lounge, The Armored School.

Hostesses were wives of officers of the school and invited guests included wives of officers who command the major units at Knox.

Guest of honor was Mrs. Charles V. Bromley Jr., wife of Maj. Gen. Bromley, Commanding General, The Armored Center.

The Bromleys are leaving Knox upon the retirement of Gen. Bromley from active service.

Present were Mrs. Samuel L. Myers, wife of Brig. Gen. Myers, Commanding General, ARTC; Mrs. John M. Willems, wife of Maj. Gen. Willems, CG, 3d Armd. Div.; Mrs. Raymond W. Curtis, wife of Brig. Gen. Curtis, Asst. Comd't, The Armd. School; and Mrs. Alva R. Fitch, wife of Brig. Gen. Fitch, CG, Division of Artillery, 3d Armd. Div.

Wives Plan Party

FORT GORDON, Ga.—The Post Headquarters hospitality coffee, regularly scheduled for the third Thursday will not be held in April.

Plans are being made for an informal get-together for officers and wives of this group, to be held on Friday night, April 20 (7:00 to 9:00 p.m.) at the Officers' Open Mess.

Completely casual and friendly in tone, the main attraction of the evening will be a lavish smorgasbord.

Brig. Gen. Jeremiah P. Holland, commanding general of Gordon, will be guest of honor at the party.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Wm. L. Latta Jr. and Lt. Col. and Mrs. Wm. Coshun have been named joint chairmen for the entertainment.

Mrs. Noseck Departs

FORT KNOX, Ky.—A congenial group of ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. Dorsey H. Cullen, to have a farewell get-together over coffee cups with Mrs. Kenneth Noseck, who with her husband, Col. Noseck, Asst. Chief of Staff, G-1, The Armored Center, leaves soon for his new assignment on Formosa.

Mrs. Noseck

The ladies, who are wives of officers assigned to the G-1 section,

The Armored Center, were Mrs. Earl Baldwin, Mrs. I. B. Clarke, Mrs. John J. Adams, Mrs. Joseph Simonetti and Mrs. Albert C. Monstrom.

Wives Set Styles

FORT BELVOIR, Va.—The officers' wives of the Davison Army Airfield Command paraded with the grace and glamor of professionals in fashions designed to carry the Army wife through any day from sports to cocktails. The spring fashion meeting was held at the Pines Club, Fort Belvoir, Va.

Mrs. Edwin H. Leer, wife of the commanding officer of Davison Army Airfield, introduced three guests, Mrs. Paul F. Yount, Mrs. Hamilton H. Howze, and Mrs. G. E. Galloway.

Chairman for the various committees for the meeting were Mrs. Kermit Peterson, program committee; Mrs. Donald H. Bishop, Jr., welcome committee; Mrs. Lewis J. McConnell, decorations, and Mrs. Ralph L. Sandberg, reservations.

Models participating were Mrs. George C. Bernard, Mrs. Horace P. McCulloch, Mrs. Billy J. Williams, Mrs. Edward R. Beck, Mrs. Robert D. Edwards, Sr., Mrs. Fred Hiatt, Mrs. Charles M. Paulk, and Mrs. Ralph L. Sandberg.

Mrs. McDowell Feted

FORT BENNING, Ga.—Mrs. Samuel T. McDowell, wife of the new commander of the 3d Division's 15th Infantry Combat Command, was honored at a luncheon given by officers' wives of the command in Benning's Main Officers' Mess.

Among the ladies present were Mrs. Robert H. Booth, wife of the division artillery commander; Mrs. Arthur B. Busbey, Jr., president of the group; Mrs. Blackburn Stephens, wife of the new 15th ICC executive officer, and Mrs. Frederick R. Zierath, wife of the assistant division commander.

A wishing well filled with flowers centered the head table. Side tables held a profusion of tiny flower-filled buckets. Pastel ribbons graced the length of the tables.

The guest of honor was Mrs.

Wives Hold Luncheon

FORT BENNING, Ga.—A "Spring Wish" luncheon was given by wives of officers of the School Brigade in March at the Main Officers' Mess at Benning.

A wishing well filled with flowers centered the head table. Side tables held a profusion of tiny flower-filled buckets. Pastel ribbons graced the length of the tables.

The guest of honor was Mrs.

Ready for a Dip

HIGHLIGHTING the fashion show staged at the Officers' Wives Club at Fort MacArthur, Calif., last week, Mrs. Pat Bower models the latest in bathing suits. Originals from California's top couturiers were modeled by seven club members, who were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Thomas M. Tarpley, wife of the deputy post commander. Luncheon and bridge followed the fashion show.

Joseph H. Harper, wife of The Infantry School commandant.

Approximately 97 ladies attended the event, which was under the direction of 2d Battalion wives, headed by Mrs. Beverly N. Skardon.

Fashion is Keynote

WASHINGTON.—Fashion was the keynote of the day when the Adjutants General Ladies Luncheon Group met at Ft. McNair this week.

The show was coordinated by Mrs. William B. Saurel and Mrs. Boris Fredericks, and the commentary was by Mrs. Paul S. Willard. Spring and summer fashions for all hours of the day were shown.

The following Adjutants General wives modeled the clothes: Mrs. Frank W. Morrow, Mrs. John W. Maen, Mrs. Robert C. Browning, Mrs. Carroll V. Hughes, Mrs. Robert L. Riebstatter, Mrs. Thomas J. Marnane, Mrs. Stephen T. Kean, Mrs. Earl T. Cole, Mrs. Harry K. Klie, Mrs. Edward M. Miller, Mrs. William C. Carter, Mrs. Jefferson M. Collins, Mrs. Robert Q. Easterling, and Mrs. William D. Van Buehik.

The ladies of the Comptroller Division, with Mrs. Keith O. Dicken as chairman, were hostesses.

Wives of 61st Inf. NCOs Form New Club at Carson

FORT CARSON, Colo.—Non-commissioned officers' wives of the 61st Inf. Regt. here have formed an organization.

Elected president at the first meeting was Mrs. Olive Coston, wife of MSgt. Thomas Coston.

Other officers are Mrs. Russell Joseph, vice president; Mrs. William Anthwine, secretary; Mrs. Edward Stoner, treasurer, and Mrs. Robert Forties, entertainment chairman.

All are wives of master sergeants in the 61st.

Mrs. Robert J. Rosa, wife of Col. Rosa, regimental commander, pointed out at the meeting that American families in foreign nations are brought together by unfamiliar customs and languages of those countries. That makes an organization like that in the 61st particularly helpful, she said.

A major element of an Army career is the association of families within a unit, she said, since this creates a harmonious spirit.

The 61st, part of the 8th Inf. Div., will go to Germany this fall.

Meetings of the group will be held on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, Mrs. Coston said, at 1:30 p.m. in the 61st NCO Club.

Big Program For Youths Set at Riley

FORT RILEY, Kans.—The Riley Youth Activities Council has a well-planned program for the summer which will commence on May 28.

Activities are planned for baseball, arts and crafts, library, entertainment, swimming and special projects.

In baseball, there will be two leagues—the little league and the pony league.

The little league will be composed of at least six teams which will compete with little league teams available and against each other in a double elimination tournament. Practice will be from 1:30 p.m. to 2:45 hours, Monday through Friday. Practice in the pony baseball league will be from 2:45 to 4 p.m. on the weekdays.

In arts and crafts, instruction will be given in drawing, coloring, woodwork, paper enameling and ceramics. At least 25 persons must be interested before the course will be started.

Classes in entertainment will be offered one hour each morning in straight or creative dramatics, theater craft, puppetry, music appreciation and radio production.

Qualified instructors will spend one hour, beginning at 10 p.m., Monday through Saturday, for swimming instruction at each of the post pools.

Wives Entertain At Utah Depot

OGDEN, Utah.—Mrs. Fulton Thompson, Mrs. Harley Harpold, Mrs. Robert Hudgins and Mrs. William Twitty entertained at a farewell coffee for Mrs. George Darley at the home of Mrs. Fulton Thompson.

Col. and Mrs. Darley are leaving the depot for Col. Darley's new assignment in Washington. Sixty ladies from the depot and Ogden attended the farewell coffee.

The Officers Club and the Wives Club cooperated in sponsoring a pot luck supper in the Officers Club in March. After supper, the Officers and their wives enjoyed an evening of dancing, singing and playing cards.

Lt. Richard Carr headed the committee for the Officers Club and Mrs. John O'Brien was in charge of a committee of eight ladies, including Mrs. Lawton Garner, Mrs. Frank Moore, Mrs. William Ross, Mrs. Eugene Thornton, Mrs. Ralph Chaplin, Mrs. Eugene Sanford and Mrs. James Keenan. Approximately 100 guests attended.

Mrs. Hefton Gets Commendation

MRS. MIKE M. HEFTON, director of the Fort Devens, Mass., thrift shop, receives a letter of appreciation from Maj. Gen. Bryan L. Milburn, commanding general of New England's largest military installation, for her work done without compensation at the post since October, 1954. The wife of MSgt. Hefton estimates the shop serves 600 persons per month, averaging an income of $1100 during that period. The non-profit enterprise carries furniture, electrical appliances, clothing and assorted hardware.

Staff Aides Capped at Benning

LT. COL. CLARA M. KIELY, chief nurse at the hospital at Fort Benning, Ga., caps the staff aide class which was graduated on March 25. Receiving their new caps are from left, Mrs. Donald R. Swygert, Mrs. Bernard D. Clifford, and Mrs. Angelo D. Bollero.

SPECIAL APPLE PIE

1 1/2 cup brown sugar
3 teaspoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

1 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 cup apple juice
2 tablespoons butter
5 cups apples, sliced
1/2 cup walnuts

Pastry

Mix brown sugar, cornstarch and spices in saucepan. Add apple juice, vinegar and butter. Cook over low heat until thickened. Cool slightly, add apples and pour mixture into unbaked pie shell. Top with walnuts. Bake 45 to 55 minutes in 425 degree oven.

Army Times Cooking Party

MRS. INEZ HEINRICKS, APO 940, Seattle, Wash., is this week's winner of the Army Times cooking party. Mrs. Heinrichs is the wife of MSgt. Bennie Heinrichs, Composite Depot Co., Fort Richardson, Alaska, and with this recipe she won first place in a recent Richardson social event.

Each week a service wife will win a check for $5. These recipes should be typical of the section of the States in which she is now stationed—or of a foreign country.

If possible, please mention where the recipe was discovered. Name and address should be printed clearly on each entry and addressed to: Army Times Kitchen, 2020 M St., N.W., Washington 6, D.C.

No recipes can be returned.

Dress Pattern To Be Given Each Week

It's a big thrill to buy a smart, fashionable new dress, but it's twice as thrilling when you can say, "I made it myself" (and save a lot of money in the bargain).

That thrill is now within easy reach of any woman who reads Army Times: At the bottom of this page you'll find the first offering of the Star Fashion Pattern Service, with an illustration and description of the dress, as well as instructions on how to send for the easy-to-follow pattern.

Star Fashion Patterns are not like other patterns, hand-me-down copies of high-priced original designs, currently on their way out of style. They are original designs, being offered for the first time by Star Fashion Pattern Service. They are all high style.

Created by a staff of top fashion designers, Star Fashion Patterns are made available at the low price of 50c because they are bought by women all over the United States, Canada and many foreign countries.

But don't confuse the words "high style" with "impractical, flamboyant." Star Fashions are for the modern woman of many activities.

A new pattern appears each week in Army Times.

FOR the most important day in every teenager's life — the day she gets her diploma, as well as for dates all summer long. The fitted, long waisted dress is one she'll always remember — simple, radiant . . . youthful.

Star Pattern No. 310, with PATT-O-RAMA included is in sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 18. Size 12, 4½ yards of 35-inch for monotone.

Getting Oriented

with

Betty Morris

By BETTY MORRIS

VISITORS and residents alike at Koza City are fascinated by the symbolic carp banners flying from the top of poles and roofs around Japan as "Boys' Day" approaches.

They would be ever more impressed if they had shared my recent experience of visiting Koza City and the factory of Yakichi Hashimoto where these cloth fish are made. They are entirely hand-processed!

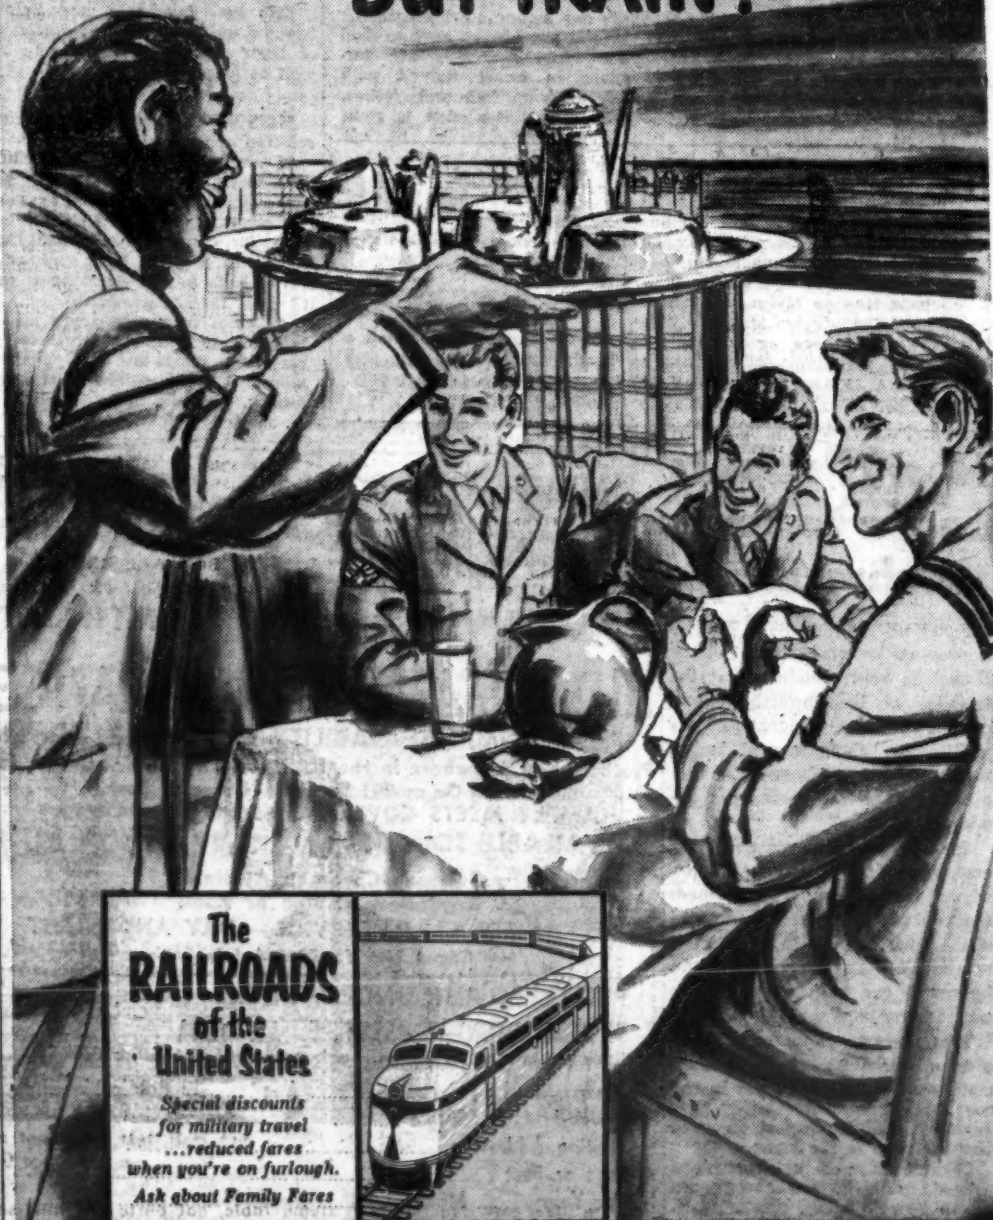

The complete paint job is done free-hand by a group of artists who work around a pre-cut cloth fish, stretched out on the floor before them. One man outlines the scales and eyes with black paint, another adds the surrounding yellow, still others add red, green, blue and gold in their respective areas. Each man adds his special color in its designated spot to hundreds of fish each week.

The smallest carp made at this factory measures six feet, the largest in normal production—30 feet. Large bear-hair brushes (hair from bears that is) are dipped in hibachi size paint pots for filling in large areas. Scale and gill markings — the final silver touches to the entire length of the fish — are added with a contraption made of five small brushes tied together, causing five individual strokes of silver with each maneuver.

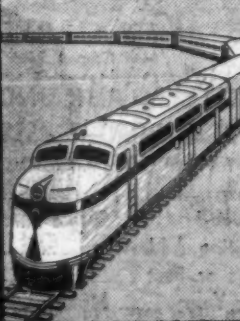

The fish are usually sold in sets of two — one predominantly black and the other red. The black is always slightly larger than the red.

● HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Make-Up Changes Should Be Felt

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD. — When the names of Hollywood's all time greats are recorded in cinema's hall of fame, there is no question that Bette Davis will be among them. Her roles have varied from Mildred, the sexy waitress in "Of Human Bondage," to her majestic portrayal of Queen Elizabeth.

How does one effect such a dramatic change in type? How successfully could this be tried off stage? These questions were playing in my mind as I watched Miss Davis in a mother-and-daughter scene with Debbie Reynolds in "The Catered Affair."

As we walked across the lot to Miss Davis' dressing room we chatted about the possibility of changing one's type.

"I think it is possible to change your type in everyday life, but if you don't feel in harmony with the change you won't be very happy," she said in her dramatic voice.

"I came to Hollywood in the Jean Harlow era. The studio immediately bleached my hair almost white, gave me false eyelashes and a pinkish make-up. I was portraying something I didn't feel. I was so uncomfortable with my appearance that when I visited my family in New England, I kept my head covered."

BETTE OFFERED me a comfortable chair while she removed her make-up.

"When I enacted Queen Elizabeth," she said, "I demanded all the lingerie of that period. It helped me to have the rigidity of posture that Queen Elizabeth had. Her dresses were so heavy and stiff that it was like wearing armor. 'Clothes set the manners,'

WHEN BETTE DAVIS first broke into motion pictures, the make-up people tried to put her into the "Jean Harlow mold." She learned the hard way that changing her type was not that easy—that it has to be felt and needed to be successful.

Bette continued. "How can you slump in tightly-laced corsets? Today's clothes are easy and casual, while our manners are informal."

"It is not always easy to find your type. Actresses are fortunate in being helped with their make-up, hair and clothes. Some girls know what is right for them intuitively but others seem to be happy in what is the very worst for them.

"My two daughters are being brought up to know the importance of their appearance in private as well as in public," she added.

MISS DAVIS and I discussed the relation of food to well being.

"I am rabid on food for children being served attractively as well as it being nutritious. I am violent about people who starve themselves for weight and talk about the subject in front of their children. If you have to diet don't dwell on it," Miss Davis exclaimed.

"I know from experience it is possible to condition children's taste. Our meals are family occasions. I believe in planned menus. I cannot abide TV trays or snacks."

Heart Patients Learn to Save Kitchen Work

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kans.—A program known as "Heart of the Home" is being conducted at the hospital at Leavenworth for 45 cardiac and limited energy patients of this area. Col. Norman W. Anderson, commanding officer of the hospital, made arrangements for the program.

Consisting of lectures and demonstrations in a model kitchen where actual work is performed, the course is designed to demonstrate how from 40 to 60 percent of the time and strength of the housewife can be saved in old as well as new kitchens.

This program is under the auspices of the American Heart Association and the four classes in the course are being conducted by Miss Juanita Luthi, an expert on work simplification in the home.

Cardiac as well as other type patients with limited energy are shown how to adopt proper work patterns to assist them in living a well-rounded life as homemakers.

Mrs. Prentiss Bids Farewell at Musicale

By DENYS ROBERTS

FORT BELVOIR, Va.—The Officers' Wives Club held a Cherry Blossom musicale and tea honoring its honorary president, Mrs. Louis W. Prentiss, this week in Mackenzie Hall.

Mrs. Prentiss took a musical salute when violinist Elizabeth G. Du Val presented the honor guest's favorite concert selections. This was the club's official farewell to its honorary president.

Gen. Prentiss, commanding general of Fort Belvoir, voluntarily retires on April 30. He will take over as executive vice president of The American Road Builders' Association with headquarters in Washington, and the family plan to occupy a Georgetown residence.

Hostesses of the Cherry Blossom musicale and tea were wives of the 79th Engineer Group. Mrs. Herbert G. Lux master-minded the plans assisted by: Mrs. Joseph L. Brack, program; Mrs. Donald F. Rogers, Mrs. Arthur Makhholm and Mrs. William Johnstone, decorations; Mrs. Charles S. MacVeigh and Mrs. Max Swasick, menu; and Mrs. George Grace, Mrs. Clayton Lyles and Mrs. Francis P. Crum, reservations.

Mrs. Du Val, the violinist, also made her farewell appearance. Col. Camille H. Du Val is retiring this summer, and afterwards the Du Vals will be "at home" in Berkeley, Calif.

Three Women Win Prizes In Golf Chapeau Tournay

FORT JACKSON, S. C. — Three winners in a novelty "Easter Golfer's" millinery contest were selected at the monthly luncheon-meeting of the Palmetto Golf Association of the Fort Jackson Armed Forces Golf Club.

Judging for the occasion was Brig. Gen. James W. Curtis, deputy commanding general for training at Fort Jackson. He presented boxes of candy to the winners.

Competition was divided among three classes with Nancy Tinney coping first honors in the "most original" class. Mrs. Tinney's creation was a white towel, wrapped with golf tees on a string, appropriately labeled for the disgruntled golfer with "Crying Towel."

In the "silliest hat" class, Mrs. J. N. Moore took first honors with a creation made of a rectangular board base colored a bright yellow, with a miniature woman golfer hitting a shot to a green. A tree growing around the edge of the green complemented the "millinery" work.

Mrs. W. D. Graham won top honors in the "prettiest hat" class with an outstanding chapeau depicting a golf hole complete with tee, fairway, green, and a bridge over a stream crossing the fairway.

HIGHLIGHT of the March meeting of the Women's Club of Governors Island was a spring fashion show. Two of the lovely models were Miss Delores Barrett, left, and Mrs. C. I. Koons. Other models in the show held at the Fort Jay Officers Club, were Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. L. N. Cron, Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. J. E. Mance, Mrs. W. S. Nelson, Mrs. J. S. Roosma and Mrs. Stewart. Mrs. W. W. Lockett is club president.

Fort Myer Honors 21 Grey Ladies

FORT MYER, Va. — Twenty-one Red Cross Gray Ladies were honored at a recent luncheon in Patton Hall, Fort Myer, for contributing more than 5000 hours of work to Myer dispensary last year.

Mrs. Harry Wheaton, chairman of Grey Ladies for the Arlington area, presented service stripes to Mrs. Robert Christie, Mrs. Thomas Dowling, Mrs. Maurice Green, Mrs. Peggy Holsington, Mrs. Hartley Hutchins, Mrs. Edward Jones, Mrs. Ethel Jarvis, Mrs. Anna Kroc, Mrs. Thomas Lineham, Mrs. Marie MacKensie, Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. Herman Meyen, Mrs. Franklin H. McNaughton, Mrs. John Reineck, Mrs. Harry Heaton, Mrs. Joseph Webb, Mrs. Jeanne McLeod, Mrs. Catherine Seaman, Mrs. Ruth Frank, Mrs. John Bozek, and Mrs. Roger Lawless.

About 50 Grey Ladies are in the group serving Fort Myer dispensary, most of whom are wives of Army officers serving in the Washington area. Mrs. Fred L. Baker is publicity chairman. In charge of luncheon arrangements were Mrs. Howard Kinsey, Mrs. Marie MacKensie, and Mrs. John Reineck.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Robert Whitlow Wilson of the American National Red Cross. Col. Harlan Taylor, commanding officer of the Fort Myer Dispensary, lauded the ladies for their valuable work, especially during the inoculation program for the Salk polio vaccine.

70 Million Cars by 1965

The total car population in the U. S. by 1965 can well be in the neighborhood of 70 million, according to W. C. Flaherty, director of business research for Chrysler Corp.

If so, he said, automobile manufacturers 10 years from now will need to build from eight to nine cars a year to replace those that are scrapped and to meet increased demands.

Guard Gets Aviation Engineer Vehicles

BEALE AFB, Calif.—The California National Guard will benefit greatly from the pending inactivation of the 136th Engr. Avn. Brigade, commanded by Col. John J. Livingston.

All general purpose vehicles of the brigade, except some required by the Air Force, will be transferred from the brigade to the California Guard.

The 828th Engr. Avn. Bn., commanded by Lt. Col. George C. Miller made the first transfer of vehicles under this program last week, when 103 vehicles valued at slightly in excess of $1-million, were driven in convoy from Beale AFB to Stockton, Calif.

The convoy consisted of 52 five-ton dump trucks, 15 3/4-ton trucks, 11 2 1/2-ton cargo trucks, five tank trucks, one wrecker, nine vans, six 2 1/2-ton trailers and four 400-gallon water trailers.

The 832d Engr. Avn. Bn., commanded by Lt. Col. Roy Vasser, on temporary duty at Edwards AFB, Calif., and the 819th Engr. Avn. Bn., commanded by Lt. Col. William D. Lewis, on temporary duty at Norton AFB, Calif., will transfer their vehicles, in the same number and same approximate money value, to the California Guard at San Bernardino.

THUS WITH six battalions of the 136th Brigade turning over vehicles, the California Guard, will benefit to the extent of approximately 630 vehicles valued at approximately $6,500,000.

California ROTC Cadets See Nike Unit Operating

FORT BARRY, Calif.—Approximately 290 ROTC cadets, from seven San Francisco high schools have visited the San Francisco AA Defense in the past few days.

The young cadets toured Btry. B, 740th AAA Missile Bn. at Presidio of San Francisco, where they received a talk on the operation of a Nike guided missile battery and then watched a launcher section crew go through their duties just as if the enemy were attacking. Then they were taken to the control site where they learned how a missile is fired and tracked onto a target.

BTRY. B is one of the many installations providing antiaircraft defense on a round the clock basis for the San Francisco Bay area. During their 24 hours on duty, the men spend part of their time training, improving the site and maintaining the equipment. The ROTC cadets visited the "ready rooms," where the men sleep, watch television or play games during their leisure hours while on standby duty.

As part of their training on new weapons development, it is hoped that the tours will help these young men to better understand AA units of the Army and their mission in national defense.

The groups were accompanied by officers and NCO instructors and faculty members from the various schools who seemed to enjoy the tour as much as the cadets.

86 Privates Boosted

FORT CARSON, Colo.—Eighty-six privates (grade E-2) were promoted recently to private first class (grade E-3) at Fort Carson under a new Army policy.

The new promotion policy set forth by Department of the Army allows appointments to private first class to be made without regard to vacancy for privates who:

(1) have served 18 or more months of active service as of Feb. 1, 1956; and (2) are deemed qualified for promotion by their commanders.

The other battalions of the 136th stationed at Beale, will make similar transfers of vehicles within the next few days. In each instance vehicles will move in convoy from Beale to Stockton, where the California Guard will assume accountability.

MSGT. Harold Hankins, of the ConARC advanced Army marksmanship unit at Fort Benning, won the Infantry center rifle championship April 3 by a margin of seven perfect hits. He registered 48 Vs to 41 Vs scored by MSgt. Francis B. Conway to break a seven-point total score tie of 775. Conway also is from the AAMU.

The tie developed in the final firing when Conway scored a 231 to Hankins' 224 in the seventh event of the two-way battle between the Benning riflemen. Hankins had held a slim lead throughout the first six matches.

In addition to winning the individual gold medal, Hankins also placed first in three matches, the 200-yard sustained fire, the 300-yard sustained and the medley. Conway's single match title came in the 200-yard slow fire.

The first three finishers behind Hankins and Conway were Capt. Earl D. Foster, school brigade, 761; Lt. Gilbert A. Volker, Combat Training Command, 755, and Maj. George B. Henry, 151st Engrs., 749.

The Artillery and Guided Missile School Command team rolled up 2251 points to win the Fort Sill rifle matches April 5. Second place went to the 17th FA group, with 2231, and third to the 93d FA group, 2100.

High individual scorer was Capt. W. H. Sargent, 240x250. SFC Joseph E. Kelly placed second, 237, and PFC W. P. Fleehart, third, 232.

Earlier in the week the 17th FA group took the post pistol title, with 77th FA group and TA&GMS in second and third. High man with the 45 was SFC Floyd D. Oliver, 250x300. Lt. F. Westerman placed second, 235.

Lt. Eugene H. Madison and SFC Karl Zimmerman placed first and second in the U. S. Army Forces Antilles rifle matches April 4 at Fort Brooke, P.R. Pistol winners were Capt. Ferdinand Ferrer, first, and Capt. Melvin R. Ferrera.

Lt. Patricia E. Moony, an MSC dietician at Rodriguez Army hospital, this year became the first woman to enter the USARFANT matches. She placed second in the 50-yard pistol slow fire and will be a member of the Antilles team to compete in the U. S. Army Caribbean matches in Panama beginning April 30.

On the pistol team will be Capt. Ferrer, Capt. Gerardo Latoni, Lt. Moony, Sgt. Clarence Smithers, Sgt. George W. Dawe, and Sgt. Alfredo Almadovar. Tentative selections for the rifle team include Lt. Madison, Lt. Robert E. Peardon, MSgts. Evangelista Castro, Richard A. Keys and Mariano Santini, Sgt. Zimmerman, PFC Glen McCollum and PFC Ronald Bucklin.

The 1st Armd. Div. at Fort Polk will run off battalion team pistol matches April 18-21 to determine major command teams. These in turn will fire to decide the team that will represent the division in

Kelleher, Ashford Named To MAAG Japan Posts

TOKYO. — Maj. Gen. William S. Biddle, Chief of the Military Assistance Advisory Group, Japan, has announced the appointments of Brig. Gen. Gerald C. Kelleher, U. S. Army and Capt. George W. Ashford, U. S. Navy, as chiefs of the Army and Navy Sections, respectively.

Kelleher, formerly Vice Chief of the Army Section, succeeds Brigadier General Ned D. Moore, who has been ordered to duty at the Pentagon. Ashford succeeds Rear Admiral Wayne R. Loud, who has been ordered to sea duty.

the Fourth Army matches at Fort Hood April 28-May 5.

At Fort Niagara, awards were presented last week by Col. William H. Bach, CO of the 2d AAA group, to the post smallbore rifle winners who will fire in the First Army championships at Fort Dix May 1-6.

Awards went to SP2 C. F. Whiteley, first place; PFC D. L. Hanson, second, and MSgt. D. A. Mitchell, third. Lt. P. J. Edmond and PFC M. J. Adamski tied for fourth.

New rifle champ of Fort Lewis is 1st Lt. Robert E. Cherry, who scored a 584 in leading the 5th Inf. Regt. to win the post's team title. Cherry barely edged SFC J. W. Tarvin, 71st Div. Arty., by the margin of three Vs—28 to 25.

The team that will represent Fort Lewis in the Sixth Army matches April 30-May 4 at Camp Roberts, Calif., includes, besides Cherry and Tarvin, 1st Lt. Ted Small, PFC Irving Sewell, PFC Thomas Ham, SFC J. A. Walner, Capt. Cantrell M. Daniel III, MSgt. G. E. Barnes and 2d Lt. Montgomery Littlejohn.

Rifle and pistol teams to represent the 4th Inf. Div. in the USAR-EUR "Little Camp Perry Matches" May 7-12 at Grafenwoehr will be named April 21. Maj. Robert B. Fahs will captain the teams. Coaches will be Capt. Clarence J. Schlater and Franklin Boutilier.

Top individual scores in the Fort Jackson commander's trophy matches were turned in by PFC Freddie W. Davis, rifle, 466x500, and Maj. Roy E. Hogan, pistol, 278x300. Fort McPherson is sponsoring a series of monthly NRA-sanctioned pistol matches on the home range. First meet last week had four teams on the line, Fort Mac military and civilian, USMC Reserve of Atlanta, and Georgia Military District.

Freedom Award Winners

AT CEREMONIES last week in the office of Brig. Gen. Jeremiah P. Holland, Fort Gordon, Va., commander, SP2 Ellis J. Pender, right, received a third place medal and $100 check in the annual Freedoms Foundation letter-writing contest. PFC Frank Booth, left, holds his award for placing in the honor medal class. Pender, assigned to H&S Det., 3441st SU, and Booth, a member of the 2d Trng. Co., (RFA) MPTC, were among 132 award-winning servicemen in the All-Army letter contest.

The Gentle Touch

A gentle act, a gentle help, can say so much. That's why gentleness is what modern taste demands in cigarettes. And why new Philip Morris, born gentle, then refined to special gentleness in the making, is so popular among our young smokers. Enjoy the gentle pleasure, the fresh unfiltered flavor, of today's Philip Morris.

New Philip Morris... gentle for modern taste.

4th Armored Div.

Famed Unit Celebrates A Birthday

FORT HOOD, Tex. — In commemoration, April 15, 1941-April 15, 1956.

The 4th Armored Div. remembers the deeds of its forebears on April 15. This is a portrayal of the division, from Pine Camp, N. Y., in 1941 to Normandy's Utah Beach, across northern France, Rhineland, Ardennes, central Europe and into Czechoslovakia in 1945. It tells of the peacetime 4th Armored, reactivated in 1954, its participation in Exercise Blue Bolt and Sage Brush, and its new mission in 1956.

Brig. Gen. Disney Asst. Div. CG

The men were in assembly areas in England on a summer day in 1944. There had been no indication of an invasion, except for the planes that flew over the night before. On the morning of June 6, the planes returned empty. American and British troops were on the continent.

On July 11, the division started unloading at Utah Beach on the Normandy coast. It entered combat one week later.

In the struggle which followed, Coutances, Redon, Lorient, Vannes, Orleans, Troyes, St. Dizier, Commercy, Nancy, Arracourt, Metz, Bastogne, Arlon, Bitburg, Bad Kreuznach, Oppenheim, Eisenach, Gera and Susice, where West met East on May 8, 1945, dotted the 4th's trail across Europe.

(now Camp Drum), N. Y., on April 15, 1941, when it was activated. It trained there under Maj. Gen. H. W. Baird and then Maj. Gen. J. S. Wood. On Sept. 14, 1942, the division moved to Tennessee for extended maneuvers with Second Army.

In November the division was transferred to Camp Young, Calif., where it participated in the Desert Training Center maneuvers. Following additional desert problems at Camp Bowie, Tex., it entrained for Boston, from where it sailed for Europe on Dec. 29, 1943.

Division Testing Concepts For Fighting Atomic Wars

FORT HOOD, Tex.—The present day 4th Armored traded names like Bastogne, the Rhine, Bad Kreuznach and Arlon for Cowhouse Creek, De Ridder and the Red River in testing the concepts of atomic warfare in 1955.

The unit that had been labeled "the greatest reconnaissance partol in modern warfare" by then Stars and Stripes writer James Cannon during War II, began 1955 on the Fort Hood reservation in war games against the 1st Armored Div. This was Exercise Blue Bolt, then units of the division went to Nevada for Desert Rock; and finally giant Exercise Sage Brush in Louisiana during November and December.

Exercise Blue Bolt was held in February and lasted 17 days. Its purpose was to test the capabilities of armor in the new age. Later, on May 5, after two months of specialized training at Camp Irwin, Calif., a select group of men from the Fourth's 22d Armored F.A. Bn., 510th Armored Inf. Bn., and 24th Armored Engineer Bn., served as shock troops in the first combat style atomic-blast maneuver in history at Camp Desert Rock, Nev.

In the words of Maj. Gen. Thomas J. H. Trapnell, then division commander, "They have demonstrated to everyone — to the world, in fact — that armor . . . is the most effective weapon we have in an atomic battlefield."

During the summer and fall months the division steadily grew in strength. Men poured in from all corners of the globe to fill the 4th for Exercise Sage Brush, the largest joint Army-Air Force maneuver ever held in the United States.

In late October, the entire division—less three battalions—was encamped in assembly areas near De Ridder, La. The division was ready to do on a large scale what it did during Blue Bolt at Fort Hood. The drive across Hood's Cowhouse Creek became instead an advance across Louisiana's Red River.

Acting as Aggressors, the 4th began the attack on Nov. 15. Supported by infantry, air power and atomic weapons, the division eventually wound up on the banks of the "Big Red" in seven days.

The new 4th on Sage Brush lived up to the reputation of its battle-renowned forebearer. The two month maneuver proved that the tankers who had spearheaded some 100 miles through the timber and swamps were "ready," according to Aggressor ground forces commander, Maj. Gen. Paul D. Adams, to prove their worth against any enemy.

the division was ready for combat when the planes returned empty on D-Day.

COUTANCES was first to fall, on July 28, 1944. Swinging to the south through the Brittany Peninsula, elements drove 264 miles in 34 hours to reach Prunay. Turning eastward the division captured Nancy and crossed the Moselle River. The Germans lost 281 tanks in unsuccessful counterattacks at the river line.

As the Allied offensive mounted and drove toward the Rhine River, the 4th Armored emerged as the steel point of Gen. George S. Patton's smashing Third Army.

Under the command of Maj. Gen. Hugh J. Gaffey, the division met Field Marshal Von Runstedt's do-or-die winter offensive at Bastogne.

From Dec. 22-26 the division pounded over the ice and snow at the German flanks. On the 26th, the first Sherman tank lumbered the final 100 yards over the mine-strewn Arlon-Bastogne highway to signal the relief of the hard pressed 101st Abn. Div. which had occupied the area.

Six weeks later the division plunged into action again. It went through the Siegfried Line in the wake of the 90th Inf. Div., drove to the Kyll River, and after a brief respite, unleashed a drive that carried to the Rhine.

By March 26, 1945, it had straddled the Main River and continued to press into Czechoslovakia, where

DEAD GERMAN soldiers and horses littered the roads of Europe in the wake of the 4th Armored Div. in War II. Here a 4th Armored vehicle passes a knocked-out German gun, its crew and horses crumpled on the pile of junk. At that time, a BBC commentator referred to the 4th Armored as " . . . a division which staged a super blitzkrieg in the homeland of the blitzkrieg inventors, tearing the better part of the German army into ribbons and opening the way for the conquest of a huge slab of Nazi territory . . ." This picture was taken on the road to Worms, Germany.

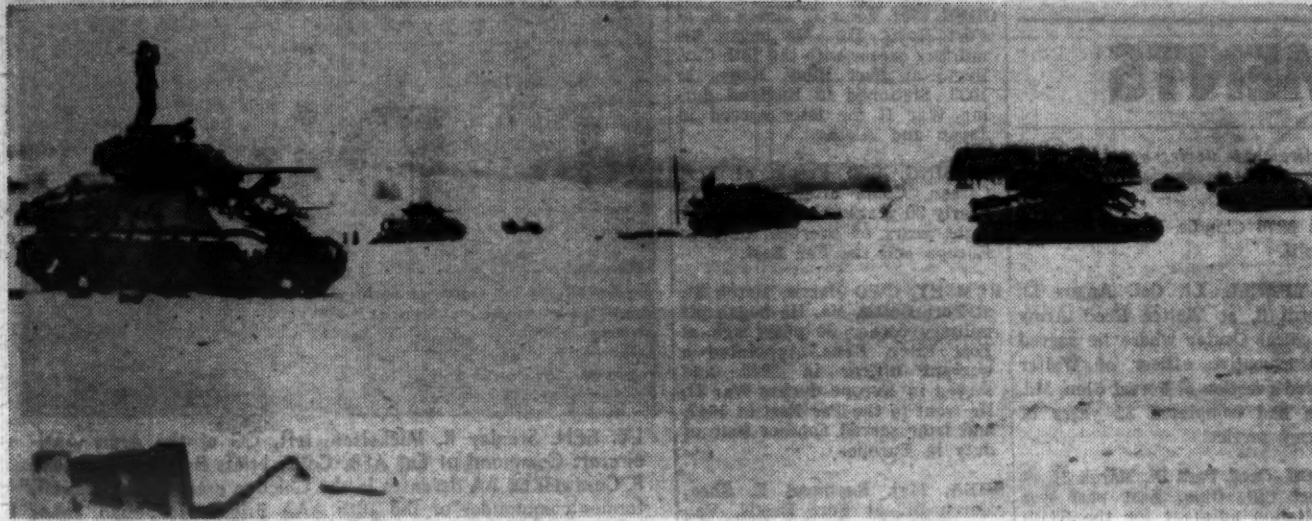

SEARCHING a German town for remnants of a defeated German army, 4th Armored Div. troops had to check every possible hiding place. The 4th Armored spearheaded many of the Third Army drives in War II. Third Army fought 281 days, conquered 82,000 square miles and 12,000 inhabited places.

THIS WAS A COMMON SCENE as 4th Armored Div. troops swept across western Europe during War II. At the time, one radio commentator said: "When the story of the big break up of the German army west of the Rhine is finally told, it will largely be the story of the 4th Armored Div. of the Third Army . . ." While armor engulfed large areas, the division's infantrymen had to clean out German pockets.

War II Spearhead Now Trains Men

MEN of the division earned three Medals of Honor, 45 Distinguished Service Crosses, 757 Silver Stars, 3918 Bronze Star Medals, 95 Air Medals, 27 Legion of Merit awards, seven Distinguished Flying Crosses, 12 Soldier's Medals, and many Purple Heart awards.

The division became the first armored unit to receive the Distinguished Unit Citation for "extraordinary tactical accomplishment" from Dec. 22, 1944 to March 27, 1945. It was also awarded the French Fourragere for action at Avranches, Nantes and the Moselle area.

After the fighting ceased, the 4th Armored Division was given an occupation assignment at Landshtut, Germany, until departure for the United States, where it was inactivated on April 25, 1946, at Camp Kilmer, N. J.

SEVERAL years later, on June 15, 1954, there was a formal presentation of colors and standards from Lt. Gen. I. D. White, Fourth Army commander, to Brig. Gen. John K. Waters, acting division commander—and the unit which had helped change the course of history 10 years before was reborn at Fort Hood, Tex.

A month later, a tall veteran of the Bataan Death March, Maj. Gen. Thomas J. H. Trapnell, took command of the division, and Brig. Gen. Ernest V. Holmes became division artillery commander. With their arrival a vast program was started to form a nucleus of men who would train the incoming personnel and put the division on a "ready for action" status.

This training blossomed into a

2 Sgts. Remodel Cadre Day Room

FORT HOOD, Tex. — A gaily decorated Cadre Day Room of the 4005th Food Service School was opened by Maj. Gen. Thomas L. Harrold, III Corps and Fort Hood Commander, during ribbon and cake cutting ceremonies held here Wednesday morning.

Harrold congratulated SFC Robert W. Orr and SFC Virgil A. Coleman, both instructors at the School, on the outstanding job they had done remodeling the day room.

combined 6000 man infantry-tank operation on Exercise Blue Bolt, held at Fort Hood, from Feb. 13-March 1, 1955. Playing the role of Aggressor forces, the 4th Armored Division opposed U. S. forces in mock warfare.

Several months later, on Sept. 15, the division's present commander arrived. A graduate of the Military Academy in 1925, Maj. Gen. William N. Gillmore had served as artillery commander of the 1st Armored Division at Anzio in 1944, and had been head of the Military Mission to Thailand from 1953-55.

From October to December all but three battalions of the division participated in the giant Army-Air Force Exercise Sage Brush in Louisiana. After the completion of the maneuver, Maj. Gen. Paul D. Adams, Army commander of Aggressor forces, complimented the division in a letter of commendation.

The battalions left behind were the first to raise the curtain on the division's present assignment—training advanced and basic trainees.

Now 15 years old, the 4th Armored Division is scheduled to train 25,000 soldiers in 1956. The men reporting here are advanced infantrymen, advanced armored trainees, advanced artillery students and basic trainees. About 2000 men are now taking training with the division.

SNOW WAS A BIG FACTOR as the 4th Armored Division sliced through the Germans to relieve the besieged 101st Airborne Division at Bastogne. At the conclusion of the Battle of the Bulge, Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, then commanding the 101st, declared: "It has been an honor and privilege for this division to serve alongside the 4th Armored Division. If we are ever in a tight spot again it is our hope that the 4th Armored Division will be sent to get us out . . ."

OPERATION SECOND WIND is the 4th Armored Division's new mission. At left, SP3 Blanton Jones explains the workings of a tank turret to Pvt. Ralph Thomas Jr. and Pvt. Darrell Goebel, advanced trainees with Co. A, 37th Tank Battalion. The division is scheduled to train about 25,000 men during 1956. It now has about 2000 trainees.

IF YOU CAN'T BRIDGE 'EM, go through 'em, is the motto of the 4th Armored Division's armored infantry battalions as they train in combat exercises on the Fort Hood reservation in Texas. This amphibious personnel carrier is one of the modern vehicles the division did not have in its War II days.

War II Vet Still With 4th Armored

FORT HOOD, Tex.—One of the many tankers who trained and fought with the 4th Armored Division during War II, SFC William N. Faulkner, came "home" recently.

As a squad leader with Co. A, 33d Armored Infantry Battalion (now 553d AIB), Sgt. Faulkner earned the Bronze Star, two Purple Hearts and the Commendation Ribbon while serving with the division from Normandy beach to the Bavarian frontier.

Sgt. Faulkner

And during the Korean action, the 4th Armored Division veteran went on to earn the Silver Star.

"Last January, when I learned I was assigned to the Fourth Army area," Sgt. Faulkner said recently, "I immediately asked to be sent back to my old outfit, the 4th Armored Division."

SGT. FAULKNER came back to the division he likes to think of as "home" in February, nearly 13 years after he first joined the 4th as a replacement. This was back in the Camp Miles Standish days when the Fourth was preparing for overseas, England, and what it knew would be the big fight on the continent.

"We trained for seven months in England," he recalls, "and then found the invasion had gone off without us."

But once the beachhead in Europe was established, the 4th and other armored units joined in the fight and made their series of electrifying breakthroughs.

One incident of the war he recalls most vividly is the day in 1944 near St. Lo when he earned his first decoration, the Bronze Star.

"Ten or 12 of our wounded were waiting to be evacuated when the Germans over-ran our outfit. We were surrounded."

Sgt. Faulkner and another of the wounded, at the risk of their own lives, moved their more seriously wounded comrades through enemy patrols back to a safe American position.

"The Army saw enough in that to give me the Bronze Star," he recalls.

DISCHARGED in 1945 after three years of combat with the 4th, the now Mr. Faulkner went to work in Philadelphia as foreman of a construction outfit.

But when the fighting broke out in Korea in 1950, he re-enlisted and again went overseas, this time as a member of the 73d Tank Battalion of the 7th Infantry Division.

As a sergeant of a tank platoon, Sgt. Faulkner found good use for his 4th Armored Division training during the fighting in the hills of Korea one bitter day.

"What must have been a regiment of Chinese swarmed down on our platoon of tanks. They had no anti-tank weapons, but climbed on top of us, trying to set off mines on our weak topsides."

"I started firing the machine gun at my own tanks, knocking them off as fast as I could."

Sgt. Faulkner left the protection of his own tank and fought his way through the open ground to a stricken tank. In spite of the hundreds of enemy troops around him, he succeeded in removing his wounded buddies.

For this action Sgt. Faulkner received the Silver Star.

In 1953 he was transferred to the scene of many of the battles the 4th fought in Germany.

RETIREMENTS

The following notes are from retirement stories received from post information officers. Full retirement list is carried at the end of Army orders.

ADZIMA, SP2, George B., Fort Carson, Colo. Served in Europe and the Far East for over nine of his 20 years service. Holds the Purple Heart and other decorations. # Bonus Refund Argued should have been counted as bonuses and that the new reenlistments should be counted their second.

At first count, the services figured about 12,000 enlisted men had been overpaid a total of $3 million. Now a recount indicates the figure is probably closer to 17,000 and $5.5 million, Pentagon sources say.

THE COMPTROLLER agreed not to press collection of the overpayments until the end of this session of Congress. If the services can push through their forgiveness law, (HR 8922) the men can keep the money. If not, the government will have to recoup an average of about $320 per man.

Meanwhile, the services may already be tapping some enlisted members for repayment. While the Comptroller has agreed to hold off a general collection, he wants the services to tap any men they may not be able to collect from later. If a man is due for an early discharge, for instance, he will probably have to pay up before he goes home.

SOME OTHER QUESTIONS still unanswered—

• If a man takes a "short" discharge (after half a term) to reenlist, will he have to repay the money? Present regs say he has to repay any unearned bonus but are silent on the "overpayment" question.

• If Congress does forgive the early bonus "mistakes" what does this do to future bonuses? If the relief law allows a man to keep his "first reenlistment" bonus, for instance, will his next reenlistment be his second or his third? Technically, the relief law would only let him keep the money. The services might still have to count the allowance as the first bonus. Officials said this week they don't yet know the answer to this one.

Private Who Refused to Obey Direct Order Gains Freedom

WASHINGTON.—An Army private who refused to obey the orders of a stockade officer and noncom, this week gained final victory in his legal battle for freedom.

The U. S. Court of Military Appeals knocked out a dishonorable discharge and two-year prison sentence given PFC Bernel J. Bayhand for refusing direct orders while he was confined in a post stockade pending trial on charges which were later dropped.

The nation's top military tribunal ruled that the work orders were illegally given, since Bayhand was not a sentenced prisoner at the time, and was not subject to the punitive "hard labor" duties imposed on convicted men.

Bayhand was found guilty on two counts by the court martial and sentenced to five years' imprisonment, plus a dishonorable discharge. A board of review affirmed the conviction but slashed the prison term to two years.

BAYHAND was convicted on two counts by the court martial. The first instance of disobedience arose while he was serving on a work detail in the stockade with other inmates, including convicted prisoners. Ordered to change the course of an old ditch, the men had to work in mud and water which reached half way to the top of their boots.

After toiling for 45 minutes, Bayhand told the guard he was not

NEWS IN BRIEF:

House Passes Retired Bill

WASHINGTON.—The bill to continue retirement in highest temporary grade for Army and Air Force officers took another step up the legislative ladder when the House passed the measure this week. It still has to be okayed by the Senate.

Unless the bill (HR 8904) passes, the authority for officers to retire in their highest temporary grade will expire next Jan. 1.

Enlisted men completing 30 years' service—including time in the Air Force Reserve or Army Reserve or on the retired list—would be raised on the retired list to the highest grade they held. The Defense Department wanted them put in the highest grade on retirement, but the House Armed Service committee wrote the bill to require 30 years' service, as is presently the case.

In all cases when highest grade retirement is granted by HR 8904, the man must have served on active duty in the grade for a least six months.

Rucker Will Test Aerocycle in June

WASHINGTON.—Service tests of the Army's one-man helicopter—the Aerocycle—will begin in June at Fort Rucker, Ala., it was learned this week.

An order for 12 of the one-man choppers, which can carry 350 pounds, are powered by an outboard motor, has been placed.

The order specifies that the craft be delivered to CONARC Board No. 6 at Fort Rucker. There they will be put through a complete test to develop safety standards for operation and maintenance.

If the aerocycle comes through the service tests, it will be given user tests before finally adopted.

During the tests at Rucker, manuals on maintenance and on operation will be prepared, looking toward the user tests.

The aerocycle has been proposed as a one man scouting helicopter. It is said to be so easy to fly that a man can learn to handle one in 20 minutes.

The craft is specifically designed to meet Army combat needs. It has been tested informally at Fort Dix, N. J. It will be supplied, for user tests, to the 101st Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky., for one, and probably to other organizations.

More Money Asked

WASHINGTON.—The Army would get $55 million of a total $547 million increase in fiscal year 1957 appropriations asked by the Defense Department last week.

The proposed increase would be needed for additional men to train youths under the Reserve Forces Act and for maintenance and operation of the distant early warning (DEW) line, Defense officials told Congress.

Bulk of the funds asked, $376 million, would go to the Air Force for construction purposes and for stepped-up production of B-52s.

No 45-Day Rap Now For Volunteers

safer from call-up in case of an emergency.

The law also provides that the Army can send one-year Reservists to camp for 45 days if they fail to meet their drill requirements.

THE ARMY has now taken the position that since the one-year program is strictly a voluntary one, the 45-day punishment provision only serves to discourage individuals from volunteering for it.

Under the new ruling, then, delinquents will be dropped from the program and transferred to a "reinforcement pool" where they will have to serve out their full Ready Reserve obligation. In the reinforcement pool they will not have to attend drills or participate in any manner.

If the delinquent Reservist wants to, he can join a Reserve unit again, but this time it will not help him work off his obligation.

ANOTHER REASON the Army gave for dropping the penalty provision was that it would like the Reserve to be—insofar as possible—a volunteer branch.

As one official put it: "If you hold a threat over a man's head—even though he might have volunteered for the program originally—the man quickly loses his incentive and he is of less value to you."

The Army also said last week that the one-year program has been steadily rising since it began and is now beginning to "look encouraging."

One spokesman said that enlistments are now six times the weekly rate of last December.

Army Gives Planes

WASHINGTON.—The Army is turning over 19 surplus L-21's to the Air Force which will give them to AF aero clubs.

This switch will give the off-duty flying clubs in Strategic Air Command, Air Training Command, Air Defense Command, MATS Headquarters and Headquarters Command a safe, hardy plane for week-end trips.

The L-21 is an Army liaison plane, a two-place, single-engine job with a 130-mph speed and a 460-mile range.

A whole flock—exact number undisclosed—of L-21s is being turned over to the Air Force from Gary AFB, San Marcus, Tex., where they were used for training of Army fixed-wing pilots.

ARLINGTON, Va. — A local dance instructor fell into police hands after two women, who were exchanging romantic confidences, found they were talking about the same man.

According to Arlington police, the man had "borrowed" money while dating both women after outlining to them a bright financial future from the settlement of a non-existent Colorado estate.

Detective Jackey Snoots said the women learned they had a more or less mutual boy friend during a luncheon date last month.

One of them — an Arlington woman separated from her husband — took the story to police.

MOLINE, Ill. — R. L. Blomberg complained that his paper, delivered by a carrier boy, was missing at the rate of two or three times a week.

The carrier was dependable, and neighbors said they hadn't seen it. One neighbor watched for several days before he saw a rabbit seize the rolled newspaper in its mouth and scuttle off. Neighbors and the Blombergs found under a porch a neatly constructed rabbit's nest built from the missing newspapers.

EL CENTRO, Calif. — Dogs rolling in dough solved the case of the missing $200,000.

The money, in non-negotiable checks, disappeared while en route via air.

No clues were found immediately. Then a tracer was put on other shipments on the plane. The mystery was solved yesterday with the disclosure that the envelope of checks had fallen into a crate containing dogs.

The pups chewed up the checks and used the paper for bedding — litterly rolling in the dough.

Shopping Service to Help Men Overseas Solve Their Mother's Day Gift Problem

WASHINGTON. — Going to be overseas on Mother's Day, May 13? The Armed Services Hospitality Committee here will be happy to solve your gift problem.

The group has for the past 12 years operated a non-profit overseas shopping service to help servicemen outside the U. S. with their shopping problems back home.

To make use of the service follow these instructions:

List your full name, rank or rating, serial number, unit and APO or FPO and port city. Also the complete name and address of the person to whom you want the presents sent.

Name your first choice of gift in each case (one dozen red roses, corsage, two pounds chocolates, etc.) In every order give the first name, relationship to you, age (if child) sex, size of the person to whom you are sending the gift (if clothing is ordered). Be clear about delivery address, and of course, of the name.

Tell how you want the enclosure card to read. Enclose money order covering total amount you want us to spend plus enough for parcel post, or telegram for late delivery of flowers. The Hospitality Committee will return all balance together with exact accounting of every cent spent.

If you want your presents delivered west of the Mississippi address your order to the United Volunteer Services, Inc., Third and El Camino, San Mateo, Calif. Make out your money order in care of the United Volunteer Services, Inc. They handle all orders for delivery in the West.

If you want your presents delivered east of the Mississippi make your money order to Recreation Services, Inc. (their operating agency in Washington, D. C.) and mail to the Armed Service Hospitality Committee (Recreation Services, Inc.) Room 27A, Old Post Office Bldg., 12th & Pennsylvania Avenue, N. W., Washington 25, D. C.

6000 See Schofield Ringmen Battle for 25th Div. Crowns

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS.—Colorful action marked the final round of competition in Schofield's Tournament of Champions as 20 of the 25th Div.'s best boxers slugged it out for division championships. A crowd of 6,000 howling fans saw one of the most exciting cards ever staged at Schofield. Two knockouts and a TKO highlighted the evening's festivities.

The first KO came whenbantam-weight Lionel Rivera of the 27th Inf. Wolfhounds lived up to advance billing as he took just 1:43 to dispose of Pancho Losano of the 14th Inf. Golden Dragons. Losano forced the action in the opening minute, but the former Pan American champion soon opened up with a barrage of lefts and rights, climaxed by an overhand right high on Losano's head.

THE TKO was scored by the 14th Inf.'s Bobby Bryant. The hard hitting light-welter coasted through the first two rounds of his bout with Paul Lacio of the 27th, falling behind on points. Apparently aware that a KO would be needed for him to win, Bryant rushed out for the third stanza. He battered Lacio mercilessly with lefts and rights to the head and body. Referee Howard Golden stopped it at 2:58 of the third.

Jim Hicks of Divarty scored the evening's other knockout when he stopped stablemate Ted Meeks in a middleweight go. A vicious right uppercut to the jaw felled Meeks.

Light-middleweight Omar Darty of the 14th gave his hopes for an Olympic trial a boost as he decisioned Elijah Harris of the 27th. The flyweight crown went to Lorenzo Dingui of the 35th Inf. Cacti. Dingui took a split and not too popular decision from Hank Menard of the 14th.

FRANK MEMO of the 27th got inside the long reach of the 35th's John Goodman and pounded out a solid unanimous decision. The Wolfhound's Carmie Price, recently voted the outstanding boxer in the division, had little trouble in decisioning long, lean Duane Fitzgerald of Divarty for the light-weight crown.

Welterweight George Hildebrand of the 35th started fast, but Sam Hiona of the 14th started raining punches and extinguished Hildebrand's blaze.

Bill Stephan, another Olympic hopeful, outlasted George Simms of the 27th and won a unanimous decision and the division heavy-weight title. Bob Byrd of Divarty became the division light-heavy-weight king without action. Stan Dowell of the 35th Inf. failed to make the weight.

TKO over the Wheels' Wilbur Hill.

In the final bout of the evening Lee's undefeated light-heavyweight Bobby Whitt decisioned Eustis aggressive Moses Walker. Lee's answer to Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson, had a little tougher fight than normal but came through to produce the deciding bout for the Travellers.

Other bout results:
125 pounds — Roland Williams (Lee) decisioned Alfred Thompkins.

139 pounds — Jesse Bruce (Eustis) TKO'd Charles Mitchell (1:40, 2nd round).

147 pounds — Freddie Taylor (Eustis) TKO'd Ivan Baukman (2:30, 1st round).

Ring Revival Planned

FORT BRAGG, N. C.—The 504 Airborne Inf. Regt. is currently tailing the pack in 82d Abn. Div. boxing competition. As a step towards improving their ring status in the division tournament, the 504th has assigned a new coach, trainer and a few promising novices.

2d Lt. Peter D. Booras, Support Company, 504 AIR, is the new Devil coach. At West Point, Booras held the assignment as boxing coach in intra-mural competition.

New trainer is Cpl. George Loveless a veteran of 206 service bouts, 50 or more of which were as a professional. Corporal Loveless has also trained and coached service teams since 1944.

Standouts among the new novices are heavyweight Collus Smith, Middleweight Edward Francis and Lightweight Anthony Jaramillo.

16th Novices Win

FORT RILEY, Kans.—The 16th Inf. Regt. novice boxers took command at Magrath field house last week and won seven of nine bouts over the 18th Regt. In the other team matches, Divarty won two of their three bouts from Div. Sp. Trps.

Loomas Ogleby, hard hitting light-heavyweight from Co. B, 18th Regt. chilled Charles Vette, Hq. & Hq. Co. after 36 seconds of the first round. Four of the bouts ended in the second stanza, and one in the third round of the rugged card. Leon Thompson, Co. C, 16th Regt. stopped Sidney Lafleur, Co. H, 18th Regt. in 41 seconds of the second round. Arthur Haywood, Co. C, 16th Inf. floored William Miller, Co. A, 18th Regt. in 1:14 of the second round.

Billy Bond, Co. F, 16th Regt. won by TKO over Charles Webb, Co. C, 16th, in the third when Webb was staggered with right crosses and hooks. And in the first bout after intermission, Rudolph Downy, Medic Co., 16th Regt., grabbed a TKO over Colman Chaves Co. E, 18th Regt. in 1:35 of the second.

Charles Knight, Btry. A, 5th FA Bn., overpowered Lee Russell 1st Recon. Co. after 50 seconds of the second round in their middleweight fight.

2 AF MEN PICKED

No Cagers From Army On U.S. Olympic Team

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — No Army basketball players gained berths on the Olympic team that will represent the United States in the November games at Melbourne, Australia.

But three regular Air Force men, along with two AF-ROTC grads, were among the 12 players selected by Olympic officials after last week's four-way championship playoffs here. The Air Force representatives are Bill Evans (Kentucky), Gib Ford (Texas) and Ron Tomsie (Stanford). AF-ROTC men on the Olympic team are Bob Jeangerard (Colorado) and Dick Boushka (St. Louis).

Ford, Tomsie and Boushka were members of the Air Force team which finished third in the cage finals. Jeangerard played with the front-running Bartlesville, Okla. Oilers, and Boushka was on the Seattle Buchan Baker five.

The Oilers won the tournament by edging the College All-Stars, 95-75 in the final round and thus qualified for five places on the Olympic team. Besides Jeangerard, the other Australian-bound Oilers are Chuck Darling (Iowa), Burdette Halderson (Colorado), Bill Houghland (Kansas) and Jim Walsh (Stanford). In addition, Oiler coach, Gerald Tucker automatically becomes Olympic cage coach.

The Armed Forces quintet started fast in the championship meet by unexpectedly dumping the Oilers, 78-77. But successive losses to the College All-Stars (82-74), and the Bakers (82-79), blasted their Olympic hopes.

In both of these contests, the military men jumped to early leads but were not able to hold on to their margins. The Armed Forces-Baker game was a real thriller with the lead changing nine times, and the score tied eleven times in the red hot second half.

Ray Warren topped the Armed Forces in the final game with 26 points, while Tomsie pumped in 23.

Chick Hopefuls Sliced by Third

24TH INF. DIV., Korea.—Intermittently fair skies and warm weather greeted pitcher-manager Chuck Hofmeister last week when he welcomed candidates for the 19th Regt. nine, which will compete in the coming Taro Leaf Baseball League.

After six days of practice at the Community Center One diamond, Hofmeister reduced the original turnout of 95 Chick hopefuls to 62 players.

This group will be pared again next week when the battle begins in earnest for slots on the 20-man squad the Chicks will carry into their regular campaign, which opens April 28.

Five moundsmen have been singled out by Hofmeister, himself a pitcher who hurtled for Kent State, Ohio, College, as possible regulars on the 19th Regt. hill staff.

All-Army tournament veteran Cal Collins, a 1955 returnee who will be a player-coach, is one of the mound prospects who can also perform in the outfield for the Chicks if the occasion arises.

Other 19th hurlers expected to help out are southpaw Will Umstadter, who pitched for three years (1951-54) at the University of Bridgeport, Conn., and righthanders George "Red" Hammett, Ronald "Mac" McDonald and Rudy Yakovich.

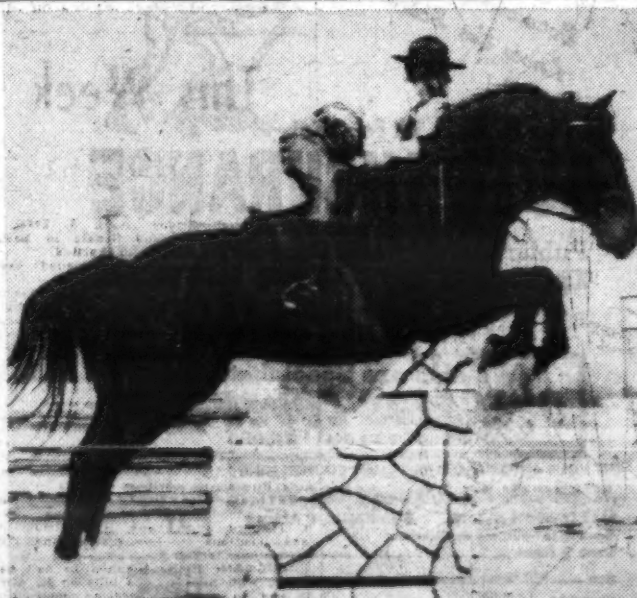

The last three have also had college pitching experiences, while Hammett has an added two years as a hurler with Spartansburg, S. C., of the Tri-States circuit.

West Point Swimmer Sets New Record

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — U. S. Military Academy Cadet Donald J. Kutyna last week set a new world mark for the 100-yard breaststroke at the National AAU meet at Yale University.

The Chicago, Ill. second classman knifed through the water in 63 seconds flat to establish a new world, American, meet and pool record. His coach, Gordon Chalmers claimed that one vital factor in the record breaking attempt was Kutyna's ability to cover more than half the distance under water.

Kutyna, who began swimming at the University of Iowa, is a "star" student, in the top five percent of his class.

BROOKE COMES IN SECOND

Buchanan Golfers Win Antilles Tournament

FORT BUCHANAN, P. R.—Fort Buchanan last week won the 1956 Antilles Armed Forces Golf Team Championship. In fourth place after the first 18 holes, Buchanan's #1 team—Majs. Robert E. Hutchins and Arnold Sokol, PFC Joe Minjares and SP3 John R. Boardman—settled down in the last two days of the tournament to make 1334 for the 72 holes of medal play.

A last-minute miracle on the 17th green, a hole-in-one by Boardman, crowned the victory. Fort Brooke's No. 1 team—CWO John A. Federspiel, Cpls. John J. Morgan and Donald W. Corrigan and PFC Arnold Lipman—scored 1339 for second place honors. Ramey Air Force Base's No. 1 team, last year's winners and the favorites for '56, was third with 1341.

Brooke's Lipman, who plays golf like his famous father-in-law Herman Barron, was low scorer in the tournament with a 315. In the last nine holes Lipman overcame the three-stroke lead of the Air Force ROTC's MSgt. Eugene Hicks to make him a likely prospect for the individual match play title.

Hicks ended up with 316 and Minjares was just a point behind with 317. Maj. Arthur Buck, Hicks' teammate, who won the amateur crown in the Puerto Rico Golf Association's Open last February on the same par-72 Buchanan course, was fourth with 319.

Competing with these four in 72 holes of match play for the individual titles were Henry Barracks' PFC Gerald LaBrecche with 321, Ramey's SSgt. Lewis Chavez, 322; Maj. Hutchins, 323, and Ramey's SSgt. Neal C. Hunter, 325.

Boxers Help Olympic Fund

FORT ORD, Calif.—A capacity crowd attended a special boxing card at the sports arena here last week, with gate receipts going to the U. S. Olympic Fund.

In the feature bout of the card, featherweight Sammy Moreno, Presidio of San Francisco, and Phil Uribe, 47th AAA Bn., fought to a draw.

Moreno, displaying fast footwork, handed Uribe a boxing lesson in the opening round. Uribe went to work on Moreno's mid-section in round two. Moreno managed to shake the surging Uribe near the end of the round to score with his left jabs again.

The judging went 77-77, 80-79 in favor of Uribe, and 79-78 in favor of Moreno.

Third Army Clobbered in Baseball Bow

FORT McPHERSON, Ga.—Atlanta's Crackers of the Class AA Southern Association clobbered a Third Army composite team here this week in a 14-7 rock-'n-roller to open Third Army's 1956 baseball wars.

Third Army's attempt to even the account in a return night game at Atlanta's Ponce de Leon park was rained out and will not be rescheduled.

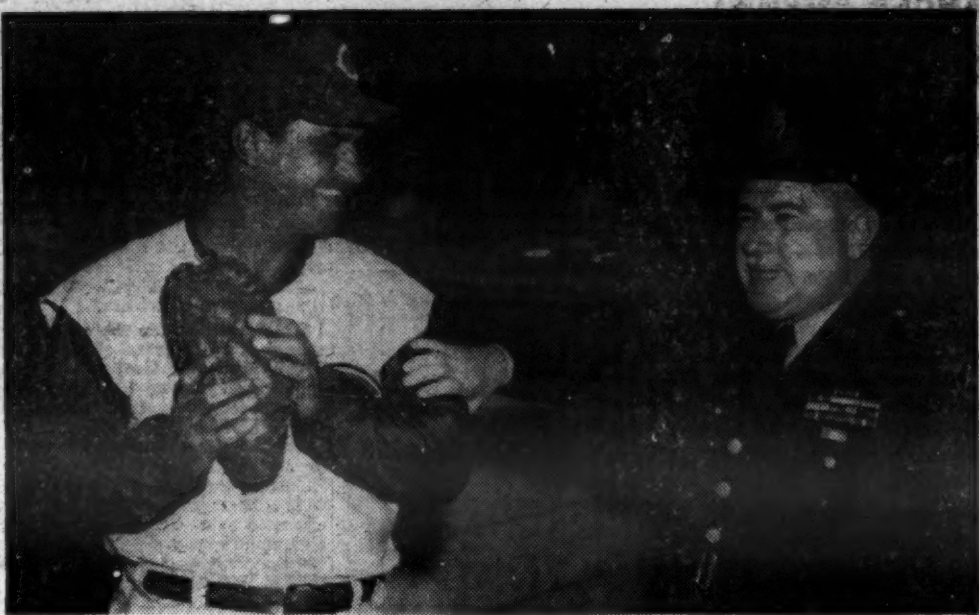

The Crackers reached four Third Army pitchers for 17 hits, including five doubles, a triple and a homer. Fort McPherson second baseman Frank Bolling (Detroit Tigers) paced Third Army with a two-run homer and a run-scoring single.

McPherson's Billy O'Dell (Baltimore Orioles) started and lost for Third Army, going four innings and surrendering four runs. Fort Mac's Bob Anderton (Pittsburgh Pirates' property) allowed only two earned runs in the next four, and Fort McClellan's Neil Thode and McPherson Manager Bill Osborne finished up.

However, the four Third Army flingers have not had enough practice this year to enable them to throw hard.

Cracker stars were starter and winning pitcher Dick Grabowski, who gave up three runs in five frames; outfielder Bill Robertson, with three hits and a home run with two on; and second baseman Bob Malkmus, with four-for-four.

Fort Jackson's third baseman Nellie Cooper, who knocked in two runs with a single, and Jax outfielder Mickey Harrington, who pinch-doubled another home, also sparkled in the game.

Redleg Strong Man

FORT GORDON CG, Brig. Gen. Jeremiah P. Holland, admired the bulging muscles of first baseman Ted Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Redlegs when the Redlegs came to Gordon to play the Washington Nats in an exhibition game.

Leonard Wood's Trackmen Lose First Meet of Season

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo.—In Fort Leonard Wood's first track and field meet of the 1956 season, Missouri Valley College dampened their hopes of winning the coming Fifth Army Tournament, handing them an 87½ to 44½ drubbing at Marshall, Mo.

The thinclads from Wood managed to salvage five first places, five second places and five third places in the 16 event dual meet. The Woodmen could score in only nine of the 15 events they entered.

The lone event Fort Wood did not enter was the 120-yard high hurdles and the six events in which they did not register points were the pole vault, discus throw, shot put, javelin, 880 and 440 relays.

Brooke Team Wins Basketball Tourney

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Tex.—A Brooke Army Medical Center team won the Inter-service Recreation Athletic Council tournament here last week. Represented by Co. B, 1st Bn., Army Medical Service School, the local team wrapped up the title by handing a Brooke AFB quintet from San Antonio their second loss, 73-67.

Center Elvin Wesley was Brooke's high scorer with 84 points in four games but high point honors for the tournament went to Randolph AFB forward Chuck Grindler who dumped in 127 points in four games.

Camp Chaffee Miler

CAMP CHAFFEE, Ark. — Pvt. Bob Soth, former Drake University distance runner, is hoping to make the Olympic tryouts this summer. His best two-mile time is 9:15.5 and he has recorded a 4:17 winning time in the mile. He recently completed basic and is awaiting a new assignment.

Hyde, Edmonds Should Help Fort Lee Team

FORT LEE, Va.—Dreams of another successful Traveller baseball campaign moved two giant steps nearer reality when a pair of excellent pitching prospects arrived on the scene to bolster a Fort Lee team that, prior to their arrival, appeared to possess all the ingredients for a winning season except some additional mound support.

The two pitching additions are Ray Hyde and Ted Edmonds, both of whom are signed to Triple A contracts—with Sacramento and San Diego of the Pacific Coast league, respectively. Hyde, a right-hander, was a member of the United States team to the Pan-American games at Mexico City last year. Edmonds, a southpaw, was the property of the Detroit Tigers organization for five years.

HEAD COACH Clifford (Roc) Snyder still refuses to go overboard on the Travis' pre-season outlook. The typically-pessimistic manager points to the catching situation as one position where help is definitely needed. Ermi Gaido, a veteran of last year's Second Army champions that placed fourth in the All-Army tourney, will be on hand until June, but after that there's a problem.

Should Hyde and Edmonds live up to expectations, the pitching staff would seem to be every bit as sound as last year's, even though the '55 mound ace, Charlie Bowers, is now the property of the Miami Marlins of the International League.

BILL LORE, a knuckleballing righthander who lost to Fort MePherson's Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, 2-0, in the All-Army tournament last year, is back again, along with another returnee, Paul Blanda. Gerald Smith, a former University of Illinois hurler, rounds out what now has the makings of a formidable starting five.

Another new prospect to make a good impression on Snyder during the first month of conditioning is third-baseman Leon Higgins, a hustling infielder who played in the Memphis Negro League prior to entering service. The hot corner is the only vacancy in the Traveller infield picture. Last year's guardian, Eddie Lavene, is now working out with the Boston Red Sox.

Higgins, along with shortstop Carl Hanta, second-baseman Dick Harris (son of Bucky Harris) and first-baseman Joe Emaar should provide another solid infield defense. The outfield situation is just as promising with hard-hitting Dick Murphy, property of the Cincinnati Reds, returning along with left-fielder Duane Emaar and right-fielder Phil Roberts.

THE LEMEN will open the season March 23 at Richmond against the University of Richmond Spiders. The same two teams will play there again Saturday, before the Travellers return to open their home season next Tuesday against the University of Connecticut.

Six other games against college opposition are booked for early April. The Travellers' first game against a service team is scheduled May 4, here, against Fort Belvoir. Post Special Services indicated this week that all March and April home games will be played on Nowak Field, as the new diamond, currently under construction, may not be ready until early in May.

Camp Zama Opens Baseball Drills

CAMP ZAMA, Japan.—The Camp Zama Ramblers held their first outdoor 1956 baseball tryouts on the Zama diamond here with Zama's 1955 star first baseman LeRoy Polite heading the coaching staff.

Among the hopefuls who turned out for practice were nine men from Zama's 1955 squad including pitcher Frank Caswell and catcher Carl Meck who accompanied the AFPE baseball team to the 1955 All-Army competitions.

Other returnees include Richard Hynds on the pitching staff, Frank Brown, George Manlove and Gordon Mitton in the infield and Jim Coalter, Les Pedicord and Randolph Smith, outfielders. The Ramblers held a 57-12 record for last season's play.

Soldiers From Banks Win Fencing Event

FORT BANKS, Mass.—Two enlisted men from Fort Banks and an Air Force lieutenant teamed up to win the New England three-weapon fencing championship, beating out such teams as Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The team, competing under the name of the Army-Air Force, included PFC Dave Tolan and Pvt. Marcel Miernick, both of Fort Banks, and 2nd Lt. Joseph Livergood of Hanscom AFB.

Lt. Livergood and PFC Tolan will represent the service in the Northeastern states fencing matches to be held in Baltimore, Md., May 19-20.

All-Star Service Cage Team Named

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The Army placed six men on the 1956 Armed Forces Press Service All-Star Basketball Team. The team includes 10 players.

Cliff Hagan, former Kentucky All-American and standout for the Andrews AFB Team this past season, topped the voting in the annual PS polls of service sports writers and coaches.

He was the only Air Force man on the team. The Marines landed two men on the team and the Navy one.

The All-Star selections:

Cliff Hagan, 6-4, Andrews AFB, Md. (Kentucky).

Dick Rosenthal, 6-5, Fifth Army Hqs., Chicago (Notre Dame).

Bob Leonard, 6-3, Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. (Indiana).

Al Bianchi, 6-3, Brooke Army Medical Center, Tex. (Bowling Green).

Richie Guerin, 6-4, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va. (Iona).

Frank Ehmann, 6-3, Gret Lakes Naval Training Center, Ill. (Northwestern).

Ralph Beard, 6, Camp Zama, Japan (Kentucky).

Larry Costello, 6, 86th Inf. Regt., Germany (Niagara).

Frank Selvy, 6-3, Fort Knox, Ky. (Furman).

Don Savage, 6-3, Marine Corps

recruit depot, Parris Island, S. C. (Lemoyne).

HONORABLE MENTIONS: Billy Evans, Ellington AFB, Tex. (Kentucky); Irv Bemoras, Fort Eustis, Va. (Illinois); James Young, Service Forces, Atlantic Fleet (Canisius); Jim Bingham, Camp Lejeune, N. C. (Eastern Kentucky); Gib Ford, Tinker AFB, Okla. (Texas); Tom Marshall, Brooke Army Medical Center, Tex. (Western Kentucky State); Lou Tsiropoulos, Andrews AFB, Md. (Kentucky); Don Lofgran, Presidio of San Francisco (San Francisco); Frank Ramsey, Fort Knox, Ky. (Kentucky); Fred Seger, Mitchell AFB, N. Y. (Nebraska); Ron Perry, Quantico, Va. (Holy Cross) and Curt Cunkle, Fort Jackson, S. C. (Florida).

16th Infantry Wins Fort Riley Title

FORT RILEY, Kans.—New post basketball champs at Fort Riley are cagers from the 16th Inf. Regt. who downed Division Artillery, 57-47, in the finals of a week-long tourney. It was the second straight year the 16th had won the title.

The impressive tourney victory also climaxed the service coaching career of Robert Junion. Although the 16th's hoop mentor had been separated from service early in the week, he stayed on with his club through the tourney play. Gib Kurts led the winners with 21 points. Teammate George Stubblefield hit 15. Mitchell Ogiego scored 18 points to lead DivArty.

WANT TO WORK WHERE AN ENGINEER IS "SOMEBODY"?...RECEIVES FULL RECOGNITION AS A PROFESSIONAL MAN?

If that's your aim, look into the status of the engineer at the Aircraft Gas Turbine Division of General Electric. You'll find he's regarded as a Very Important Person. Given full responsibility—almost from the first—for some phase of advanced engine development, requisitioning what materials and tests he needs on his own authority.

He's free to choose his technical field, to shift it, if his interests change, to concentrate on specialization or train for managerial work. Courses, counselling, contact with top men, a Full Tuition Refund Plan for graduate study are all provided to speed his professional development. Promotion matches personal progress. Salaries are as high—or higher—than anywhere else in the industry.

One in 9 Reservists 'Nearing 20' Kept on EAD

WASHINGTON. — About one out of every nine Reserve component officers due to complete 20 years' active service during fiscal year 1957 is being asked to stay on, the Army said this week.

In announcing the results of last fall's board, which reviewed the records of approximately 1400 officers who will complete 20 or more years active duty, thus becoming eligible for Title II retirement, the Army said:

"The number of officers to be retained each year in each of the various categories is not fixed but fluctuates with strength limitations; Army requirements and the quality of the officers being considered for retention."

Reference to categories covers three groups of officers being asked if they want to continue on EAD. These are:

1. "Outstanding officers whose records of performance indicate the desirability of their continued active duty."

2. Those "retained to meet grade structure requirements in under-strength branches."

3. "Officers who are critical specialists."

ALL OFFICERS being retained will be eligible for promotion, if they meet the zone of consideration criteria.

However, only the "outstanding" officers will be subject to normal assignment, schooling and utilization procedures." The other two groups will be retained in the particular field for which they were originally selected.

Men in the outstanding officer group receive no guarantee from the Army that they can complete a specified number of additional years' duty. The Army said, "Subject to the needs of the Army and continued high standards of performance, these outstanding officers may reasonably expect further retentions on active duty in future years."

Those in the second and third groups will be "reexamined on an annual basis to determine the continued necessity for their retention."

The FY 1957 retention program covers 140 officers. This fall, another board will convene to consider those staying this year for continued retention and also those who will complete 20 years' service during FY 1958.

Since last fall's board was the first to meet since the adoption of the "20-year category" and AR

135-215, the regulation which covers it, many of the 1400 officers considered have put in more than 20 years' EAD. Beginning this fall, only "retainees" and 20-year officers will be considered.

This means, officials indicated, that the results of the upcoming boards may vary widely from those this year.

You'll hear all sorts of claims when you're out looking 'em over.
But before you actually make the move...

DISCOVER THE DIFFERENCE IN DODGE!

This isn't just "big" talk. Dodge actually is bigger all around—up to 7.7 inches longer than cars in its own field, 14.5 inches longer than cars in the "low price" field. Dodge is bigger inside, too. More legroom front and rear! More hiproom front and rear! Dodge gives you plenty of room to relax in comfort.

Dodge push-button PowerFlite makes every other way of driving old-fashioned. It's mechanically perfect—the easiest, safest, surest way of driving ever developed. Just touch a button and go!

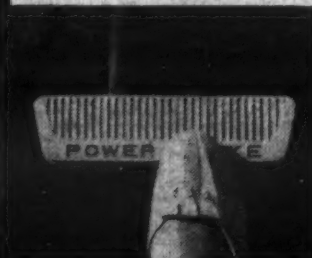

Dodge is powered for today's driving! Aircraft-type 260 hp. V-8 engine develops tremendous break-away power!

Solid—that's the way Dodge builds 'em! From the frame right on up, Dodge is engineered to take the roughest punishment. EXAMPLE: Box-section side rails provide greater strength and ruggedness than common I-beam or U-channel type used in most other car frames. Crossmembers are extra heavy. Here's solid dependability.

Who says parking isn't fun? Dodge power steering does 80% of the work, takes fewer turns of the wheel than other cars.

You can stop on a dime—with Dodge power brakes. Front wheel brakes have two cylinders, two anchors for positive, predictable stops.

It's America's performance champion! No other car has ever given such proof of superior performance. In a 14-day run at Bonneville, Dodge outclassed American stock cars and European sports cars both—shattered 306 AAA records in all, including 27 world records.

AFMAA Benefits Now Open to Civilians

SAN ANTONIO. — The Armed Forces Medical Aid Association, a non-profit organization has announced that its hospitalization insurance plan is now open to Civil Service employees of the Armed Forces and the Veterans Administration.

The Association provides low cost hospitalization insurance for servicemen and their dependents, including active duty, retired, reserve and National Guard people. The plan is also open to personnel of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, the U. S. Public Health Service and to foreign service personnel of the State Department.

Offices of the AFMAA are at 403 West Nueva St., San Antonio.

Military Tailor Opens D. C. Branch

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Lauterstein's, military tailor, has announced opening of a new branch store in Arlington, Va. It is the eighth branch of the firm which has home offices and tailoring plant here.

Louis Lauterstein, president, said that all tailoring of the new store will be done in San Antonio. Jack Abelson will manage the Lauterstein business in the D. C. area.
